ESTABLISHED 1846. NEWPORT, R. I., MONDAY, JANUARY 10, 1910.--TEN PAGES. PRICE TWO CENTS

WE'D LIKE TO

Call this the Bargain Store, if it wasn't that you'd at once begin to think us selling the poorer sort of stuff that looks well for a while but soon shows its shabbiness and proves to you that if you paid but half what you were told 'twas worth you got but half value.

Best, or not at all—that's the only rule we know; but it's always so much littler priced here that we'd really like to say—for instance

Iron Bed Bargains.

No better beds at any price can be bought. The castings are perfectly finished and the enamel is baked on. Our three stores are among the biggest handlers of metal beds in New England. Doesn't that explain to you why they should be bargain-priced here? Over 50 patterns on our sample floor for you to select from—at from

PARTY CAUCUS TO BE INVOKED.

Insurgents' Names Taken Off House Whip's List.

Men Can Expect No Support from Regular Wing.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The power of the party caucus will be invoked in the House in the effort to suppress the revolt of the insurgents. The leaders decided today that whenever the insurgents, as a body, differ with the majority the caucus shall determine the party course.

It was said in the House today that R[illegible] Dwight of New York, Republican Whip, has taken the names of the [illegible] insurgent Republican Congressmen off the list of Representatives to whom he regularly sends notices demanding their attendance at times of division.

[illegible] can expect no support from the regular wing of the Republican party. Such a warning to the insurgents has been sent out [illegible] in a statement by the Republican Congressional campaign committee. [illegible] committee at the White House, and the sentiments expressed in the statement are said to be those of the administration exactly.

Insurrection stalked afresh among the insurgents today, when they read the letter of the committee declaring that the insurgents were without the pale so far as concerns support from the committee in the coming Congressional lections. Half a dozen leading members of the revolting faction were seen at their offices in the House building prior to the convening of the House, and they were unanimously emphatic in disapproval of what the Republican Congressional committee had said and done. All were in favor of a meeting of the insurgents being called without further delay, and a reply formulated to the committee's letter.

Congressman Hayes of California said: "The Congressional committee cannot put me outside of the Republican party by any such declaration. I have voted regularly and consistently for Republican policies, and they cannot deny it. The insurgents will have a meeting within a day or two, and we will see about this thing. Two can play at this game, they will find."

Norris of Nebraska expressed himself as in favor of fighting back with all the vigor possible.

All the insurgents desire it understood that in the Ballinger-Pinchot matter they wish to see appointed by the House an impartial committee, which will and make no 'white wash' of anybody. They do not care to see any of their number on the committee, but they insist that it must be a body of fair intentions.

TO LEAVE METHOD TO HOUSE.

Committee Amends Ballinger-Pinchot Membership Resolution.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The Senate committee on public lands today reconvened and amended its resolution providing for the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation so as to leave to the House the method of selecting its membership of the committee. The Senate adopted the resolution as reported by the committee after defeating an amendment proposed by Senator Newlands which would permit "any official or ex-official" whose conduct might be considered to appear in person or by counsel.

FITTED MEN FOR WEST POINT.

New York Military Academy Practically Destroyed by Fire.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., Jan. 10.—The New York Military Academy at Cornwall, N. Y., caught fire about 2 o'clock this morning and was practically destroyed. The main building, which was originally a hotel; the observatory, the laboratory and the manual training buildings were burned to the ground. Bird Hall, used by the younger students, escaped. Nobody was hurt in the fire. The buildings destroyed were worth about $100,000.

When the fire was discovered near the kitchen the bugle was sounded and the cadets, with military precision, marched out, most of them in pajamas and bath robes. There were about 150 students in the academy, which has educated young men for West Point for 40 years. Colonel S. C. Jones was the head of the institution, and Major Davis of the United States army was military trainer.

It was 2 o'clock when the roll of drums and the note of the bugler aroused the cadets of the academy. The students turned out promptly and marched from the burning building without a sign of disorder. Some of the lads carried their clothing, and some managed to save their trunks, but many escaped to the parade ground in the falling snow only partly dressed. Every home in the neighborhood was opened to the half-clothed, shivering boys, and today the students will continue their studies in the old gold cure sanitarium at Cornwall Village.

The academy buildings were of wood, and they blazed like tinder, by the time the firemen arrived the main building being ablaze from foundation to roof. Before the firemen could put the water on, the building was doomed. In less than half an hour after the first alarm the roof fell in and only a blackened chimney marked the site of the building.

EVIL DOERS FROM EVIL MOTIVES.

Four Sugar Men Sentenced to Prison for a Year.

Judge Denies Motion for a Stay, but Remands Spitzer.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Four former employes of the American Sugar Refining Company, convicted of underweighing frauds, were sentenced to one year's imprisonment each by Judge Martin in the United States circuit court here today. The men given this term were: Charles Kehoe, Edward A. Boyle, Patrick J. Hennessy and John M. Coyle. The quartet were checkers on the docks of the sugar company in Williamsburg when Richard Parr made his famous raid and discovered that the scales used to weigh sugar imports had been tampered with and, by means of a concealed spring and other devices, made to register less than the real weights.

The jury convicted Oliver Spitzer, the dock superintendent, and the four men sentenced today. There was disagreement over the case of James F. Bendernagel, cashier of the refinery, one of the defendants. Spitzer collapsed in court Saturday, when a motion for a new trial for the men was argued, and it was found that he would have to undergo a slight operation for an intestinal disorder. For this reason Judge Martin today did not pronounce sentence on him, but remanded him until February 1, when he will receive whatever penalty the court may see fit to inflict.

Before sentencing the men today the court denied a motion for a new trial. He took into consideration, however, the jury's recommendation to mercy.

In sentencing the checkers, Judge Martin intimated that he might have shown greater leniency if the men had appealed to the court "for mercy and in a spirit of penitence." "However," said the court, "such is not their position. They challenge the verdict; they deny their guilt. They take the position that what they did was done voluntarily, without orders from higher officers—not that I believe that is the fact, but that is their position before the court. Their present attitude compels me to sentence them as evil-doers from evil motives."

Judge Martin denied a motion for a stay, and the men must at once begin serving their terms. It is expected that a motion for a stay pending appeal will be made for them before the circuit court of appeals.

REILLY PLEADS NOT GUILTY.

Charged With Having Taken and Published Wickersham Sugar Letter.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10—Thomas P. Reilly, special investigator of the Interstate Commerce Commission, pleaded not guilty today to a charge of having taken and published without authority a letter written by Attorney General Wickersham bearing on the Sugar Trust prosecutions. Reilly, who had spent Sunday in the Tombs following his arrest Saturday, was brought into court handcuffed to an Italian counterfeiter. When he was arraigned before Judge Hough in the United States circuit court a tentative plea of not guilty was entered for him by his counsel, Congressman Adams, who was allowed a week to change the plea if he so desired. Bail was fixed at $2,050.

The letter alleged to have been taken by Reilly, subsequently appeared in the Cosmopolitan Magazine. With other documents printed in this connection, it is alleged to have been taken from the office of United States District Attorney Henry A. Wise in the Federal building here. A rigid investigation and search for the purloiner of the documents resulted in Reilly's apprehension. It was found that copies had been made of the documents and the originals returned to the letter files.

It was intimated today that further steps would be taken to fix responsibility for the appearance of the purloined papers in print.

WHITE SLAVERY SYNDICATED.

Traffic Not Only Organized, but Closely Related in Country.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Syndicated white slavery today felt the sting of the legal lash. In the grand jury room District Attorney Whitman asked the investigators of the white slave traffic to find indictments against certain individuals who he is satisfied are leaders in the business. It is believed the searching investigation undertaken by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., as foreman of the special grand jury has already proceeded far enough to show not only that an organized white slave traffic really exists but that there are close relations between traffickers in women in the principal cities of the country. Ownership of many illicit resorts in this city is being traced through title companies, and it is currently reported that one such syndicate has been found to own several such places here. Outside investigation is under way to trace the affiliations of the reputed syndicate in other large centres of population, east and west.

Professor Jeremiah W. Jencks of Cornell University and other men who have investigated phases of the traffic were summoned by Mr. Rockefeller and his associates to give their testimony today.

HALLEY'S COMET HAS A TAIL.

Trail Too Faint to Be Caught Except by Photographic Plate.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 10.—A straight and slender tail has been discovered trailing behind the nucleus of Halley's comet, according to a despatch received at the Harvard observatory today from Professor E. B. Frost of the Yerkes observatory. The tail is a faint one as yet, about ten minutes in length, and at an angle of 69 degrees.

Halley's comet may now be seen through a small telescope as a sort of blur, like a faint nebula. The tail, however, is too faint to be caught by anything except a highly sensitized photographic plate. The comet is in the western sky in the early evening, but later in the week the moon will probably become too bright to permit a sight of the celestial visitor.

LARGEST ITEMS FOR PHILIPPINES.

$1,970,000 for Fortifications in the United States.

Appropriation Committee Cuts Recommendations.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Fortifications for the United States and insular possessions for the year 1911 will cost $5,617,264, over $2,500,000 less than for 1910, if the House adopts the recommendations of the appropriation committee submitted today. The committee cut the department's estimates for the coming year $1,169,524.56.

The largest single item in the appropriation is for the seacoast batteries of the Philippine islands, where it is recommended that $800,000 be expended during the coming year. For the light and power plants in the Philippines $45,000 is recommended, for scattering items, including $7,000 for the reclamation of land for fortification purposes.

The total for fortifications in the Philippines and Hawaii is $2,589,000. The sum of half a million is recommended for seacoast guns and carriages, and for the purchase, manufacture and test of land turrets $624,500. Two hundred thousand dollars is recommended for the construction of fire control stations and accessories.

The total for armament and fortifications for defense in the United States is $1,970,000, the principal item in which is one of $600,000 for mountain, siege and field cannon and equipment. An appropriation of $440,000 is recommended for ammunition and sub-caliber guns for seacoast artillery practice, which is practically the same amount appropriated for the present year. The sum of $300,000 appears for searchlights for important harbors, and $290,000 for the construction of fire control stations, range finders, etc. The estimate of $870,000 to be used for the alteration and maintenance of seacoast artillery is allowed in the bill.

The principal cuts from the 1910 appropriation are in ammunition for seacoast guns, seacoast batteries in the Philippines, alteration and maintenance of seacoast artillery, submarine mines and site for fortifications and seacoast defenses in the United States.

REPRESENTS MODERN THOUGHT.

Elkins to Present Bill to Amend Interstate Commerce Law.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Senator Elkins, chairman of the committee on interstate commerce, will present to the Senate the administration bill for the amendment of the interstate commerce law, the measure to go in within a day or two. The Senator is known for his conservatism in the matter of railroad legislation, but he has indicated to President Taft his willingness to support this measure. Although it is along somewhat advanced lines, Mr. Elkins has reached the conclusion that it fairly represents modern thought. He says public opinion demands the government regulation of the railroads, and does not consider this objectionable, so long as it stops short of governmental management. He thinks the bill will be enacted into a law during the present session.

PROFESSOR MEYER APPOINTED.

Third Arbitrator in Illinois Central Telegraphers' Controversy.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Professor B. P. Meyer of Madison, Wis., was designated as the third arbitrator in the controversy between the Illinois Central Railroad Company and its telegraphers. The board of arbitration will meet in the Federal building, Chicago, January 17.

Chairman Knapp of the Interstate Commerce Commission and Dr. Neill, commissioner of labor, the mediators under the Erdman act, announced today the designation of Professor Meyer as the third arbitrator. L. G. Rawn, president of the Monon route, on behalf of the railroad, and J. A. Newman, vice president of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers on behalf of the operators, were appointed arbitrators about two weeks ago by the parties to the controversy. They were unable to agree on the third member of the board, and it became the duty, under the law, of the chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the commissioner of labor to designate him.

Professor Meyer is head of the department of political economy in the University of Wisconsin, and chairman of the Wisconsin state railroad commission.

The pending dispute involves principally a demand for an increase of ten per cent in wages, although many minor questions concerning regulations and hours of labor are to be considered.

This Morning's News.

THE SENATE BACKS CANNON.

Takes Action to Nullify the House Vote Against the Speaker.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The Senate committee on public lands took action today which is designated to nullify the defeat of Speaker Cannon in the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy and insure the appointment of the same committee of investigation on the part of the House as would have been selected by the Speaker.

Pinchot quit the office of chief of the forest service and was cheered by his subordinates when he left as if he had been a victorious candidate returning from a successful campaign. Mr. Pinchot, in his address to his subordinates, following their tribute, made it clear that his battle with Secretary of the Interior Ballinger and the administration is not ended. He asked his former subordinates to remember that "the fight in which you are engaged for the safe and decent handling of our timber lands is infinitely larger than any man's personal prestige or personal future."

The Senate committee not only reported a substitute for the Jones-Humphrey resolution, but anticipated reference to it of the resolution adopted in the House yesterday by agreeing that its action shall stand as a substitute for the House measure. This course will necessitate action by the House on the Senate measure and give the House regulars an opportunity to attempt to turn yesterday's defeat into victory.

Meantime many of the Republican leaders discussed with President Taft the crisis created by the dismissal of Pinchot and one of them declared that the President said with emphasis that even if such a situation could be conceived as his dropping of the chief of the forest service necessitating his departure from the White House forthwith he would not and could not have done otherwise.

As to the action of the House in amending the Ballinger-Pinchot inquiry resolution, President Taft expressed no concern. "I want the investigation to be full and thorough," he said to one of his callers "and if there is anything in all this that I do not know I want it to come out."

The regular Republican organization of the House, through several of its spokesmen, asserted that it will not rest under the defeat which it sustained at the hands of its combined insurgent and Democratic enemies in the adoption of the Norris amendment to the Ballinger-Pinchot resolution taking from the Speaker the right to appoint that committee, but will rally its forces for a finish fight when the time arrives for the House to choose the members of the investigating body.

They expect then, they said, to muster sufficient force to name practically the same committee which would have been chosen had Speaker Cannon been left to make the selections.

With a full realization that their action was surcharged with dynamite, so far as the effect in the House is concerned the Senate committee declined to incorporate in the substitute resolution a clause giving to the House the appointment of its six members on the committee in any manner it chose. Such an amendment was offered by Senator Newlands.

A majority of the committee argued that the joint resolution favored by the committee was in the form that precedent prescribed and that as the House resolution had not yet been sent to the Senate the committee had no knowledge officially of the House contest.

Only Senators Newlands and Heyburn voted for the Newlands amendment. The former based his action on an expressed desire to see that Pinchot should be tried by a committee whose fairness could not be questioned, and the latter on the belief that the Senate should not attempt to dictate the manner in which the House members should be selected.

George P. McCabe, solicitor of the Agricultural Department, called on Mr. Pinchot in his office and presented to him a letter from Secretary Wilson which designated Mr. McCabe as acting forester. Albert F. Potter, an assistant forester in the service, who had been previously designated by the Secretary to relieve Mr. Pinchot as forester, being in the West and not able to return before several days, it became necessary this morning to name some one else in his place. Mr. Pinchot gave Mr. McCabe a hearty welcome and said he was ready at once to turn over the bureau to him.

INDIAN OFFICIALS SUSPENDED.

Superintendent and Supervisors Dismissed by Ballinger.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—John D. Benedict, superintendent of the Five Civilized Tribes of Oklahoma, who has been connected with the Indian service for 10 years, and three supervisors were suspended from office today by Secretary of the Interior Ballinger. Some comment was made upon the fact that the order should have been issued on Sunday.

The Secretary's action follows an investigation which is declared to have disclosed "a disgraceful condition" affecting the material and moral welfare of the Indian schools. It is said that other officials of the Indian service may soon be dropped as a result of the inquiry which the department has been carrying on for a long time and which is to be continued.

The investigation was entered into because of various reports reaching the department charging the officials already suspended, as well as others, with activities which it was thought were improper for government employes.

The suspended supervisors are Calvin Ballard of the Choctaw schools at McAlester; Frederick H. Umholtz of the Chickasaw schools, Ardmore, and Walter Falwell of the Creek schools at Muskogee. Before any further action is taken in their cases the four men will be allowed to make answer to the Secretary of the Interior as to the charges against them.

From the report made to the Secretary it appears that Superintendent Benedict is connected with certain interests in Oklahoma which have more or less business with the Indians, which relationship, it was believed, was wholly incompatible with his duties as superintendent. He permitted the schools, it was said, to fall into a disgraceful condition, while the supervisors neglected their duties in the enforcement of school contracts and in matters affecting the material and moral conditions surrounding the conduct of the schools.

Oscar H. Lipps, supervisor of the Indian schools, has relieved Superintendent Benedict pending the result of the investigation.

Secretary Ballinger and Commissioner Valentine of the Indian office announce that the investigation of the conditions surrounding the schools will be thorough and that the conduct of the officers responsible for the present conditions will be looked into most carefully.

DARLINGTON DISPLACED.

Independent Gives Up $15,000 Job to Become Health Commissioner.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Mayor Gaynor tonight appointed an independent in politics to succeed Thomas A. Darlington as health commissioner. The appointee is Ernest J. Lederle, who resigns as consulting sanitary engineer with the state and local water supply boards, which paid him $15,000 a year. His position as health commissioner carries a salary of only half that amount.

WILL COST COMPANY $200,000.

Brooklyn Rapid Transit Trainmen Receive Voluntary Increase.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—The Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company announces a voluntary increase in the pay of the 8,600 motormen, conductors and other trainmen employed on its lines. The increase in pay the ensuing year will cost the company about $200,000, it is estimated, or one-tenth of the surplus netted by the operation of the system last year.

The new system of pay places the trainmen in grades, according to length of service and their wages will be increased in proportion to their terms of service. Surface line conductors and motormen will receive from 21 cents to 24 cents an hour this year, and a half cent more for the same grades next year. On the elevated lines motormen will receive this year 26 to 31 cents an hour, conductors 21 to 23 cents and guards 18½ to 21 cents. Each grade will be advanced half a cent next year.

General Manager J. F. Calderwood said today that the directors felt that the trainmen should share in the prosperity the company had enjoyed during the past year. He added that the increase followed the pension system inaugurated January 1.

GAYNOR CUTS OFF HOLIDAY.

Intends to Keep Office Open on Saturday as on Other Days.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—There are to be no week-end holidays at the city hall during Mayor Gaynor's administration. The mayor said today that he intends to keep office hours on Saturday precisely as on any other day in the week, and he set the precedent today.

Mayor Gaynor made public late tonight seven appointments to the department of taxes assessments. Three of these are re-appointments, all Democrats, and of the four new appointees two are Republicans and two are Democrats. The list includes Lawson Purdy, president, Democrat, reappointed, with a salary of $8,000. Of the other appointees the best known is Charles T. White, who for 16 years has been a political reporter for the New York Tribune.

MIDDLETOWN.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

The "Feast of the Epiphany," which came on Thursday, was observed Sunday at the Berkeley Memorial Chapel. The services were conducted by Rev. John B. Diman, who spoke of the Epiphany season as a completion of the message of Christmas. His address was on the coming of the three wise men, who, being of differing nationalities, were typical of the varying races to whom Christ brought a new religion.

The Chapel is particularly attractive in its decorations of laurel and holly. Long strands form graceful arches in the chancel and outside the curved beams, continuing on the length of the Chapel on either side. The floral effect on the altar, of ferns and carnations against a white dorsal, was especially delicate. Evergreen wreaths suspended at the chancel rail were arched by circlets of laurel.

During the absence of the vested choir from St. George's School the singing was conducted by the former Chapel choir.

There was a small attendance Sunday evening at the Methodist Episcopal Church, for while the weather in the vicinity of the Four Corners was clear, those coming from Paradise avenue reported a snow storm in progress. Farther east about half an inch of snow fell between 6.30 and 9 o'clock.

St. George's School will re-open Tuesday, after the Christmas holidays of three weeks.

There is a possibility that the Ronkonoma Dramatic Club may repeat the comedy recently given, "The Time of his Life," in Newport during the month. The play, which was given at the town hall in November, was favorably received.

Mr. Charles Albro of the East Main road, a milkman, fell on the ice Saturday, on the roadway just outside his gate, and broke his ankle. The walking was very icy, and although he was stepping carefully the accident threw him on his back. The injury is considered a bad break.

Rev. Father Huntington will speak at the Berkeley Memorial Chapel during the month. He visited Middletown last year and spoke at the chapel and the parish house.

Crawford P. Hart of Kingston College is at home for a few days, owing to illness.

"An Evening with Dickens" will be the subject presented before the Epworth League this week, under the direction of the superintendent of literary work, Mrs. Clayton E. Delamater, the fourth vice president.

Rev. Latta Griswold, who has been spending the past three weeks in St. Louis among relatives, returned today.

Mrs. Helen DeBlois will entertain the Oliphant Reading Club at her Newport home this week, presenting the subject "Books" with general questions. The same topic will be continued another week by Mrs. Phebe E. T. Manchester as the subject was thought too large to be covered in one meeting.

The condition of Mrs. John Henry Manchester, who has been ill at her home on State Highway ... is ... His daughter, Mrs. Lillie McCormick, is with her.

Mrs. Eleanor Peckham is spending a portion of the winter with her aunt, Mrs. Joel Peckham, who is in poor health.

The semi-monthly whist, given under the direction of the Men's Club at the Berkeley parish house last week, was scheduled to occur "rain or shine." In spite of the heavy storm, a few braved the elements and three tables were played, with the following award of prizes: Women's first, Miss May Hart, collar pins; second, Mrs. E. Wallace Peckham, a novelty pin; first men's prize, Mr. Lewis Eugene Peckham, a necktie pin; second, Mr. Alden Smith, a necktie.

The attendance at the schools last week was somewhat diminished by the stormy weather and the fact that many are suffering from severe colds.

The teacher at the Wyatt School, who has been suffering from the effects of a serious sleighing accident during the Christmas vacation, was sufficiently recovered to be able to resume her duties at the opening of her school last week.

Mr. Benjamin Wyatt, Middletown's oldest citizen, who is 88, is quite feeble and suffers a great deal from rheumatism.

Mr. Elisha Clarke Peckham, who sustained a severe fall just before Christmas, continues to improve steadily and sits up a little longer period each day.

STOLE IMPORTANT LETTER.

Protege of Government Counsel in Sugar Cases Under Arrest.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Thomas P. Reilly, a protege of Henry L. Stimson, the special counsel of the government in its prosecution of the sugar fraud cases, is a prisoner in the Tombs tonight, charged with stealing from the federal building in this city a letter from United States Attorney General George W. Wickersham to Henry A. Wise, United States district attorney. The letter is the one which appeared in a magazine and created a sensation which was country-wide in its scope. Reilly's arrest stirred up the federal building more than anything that has happened there in a dozen years.

It was on information furnished by Reilly to Mr. Stimson that the government prosecuted with success the New York Central, Rock Island, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, Central Vermont, Western Transit Company and other railroads and transit companies for giving rebates on sugar shipments in violation of the Hepburn law. The railroads, on pleas of guilty, were all heavily fined.

Matters moved swiftly and big developments were expected, but the outcome was somewhat different than had been looked for in some quarters. It was known yesterday that the grand jury had returned an indictment, but the lightning struck in a spot which had been picked out by few.

The specific charge against Reilly in the indictment is the "taking and publishing of letters and private papers without authority in violation of the United States Revised Statutes and of the New York penal code." The acts complained of are said to have been committed July 1, 1909, when Mr. Wise was abroad.

In addition to the Wickersham letter there were also abstracted from the files of the district attorney's office two letters from C. B. Heike, secretary of the American Sugar Refining Company, to John E. Parsons, counsel for the company and the minutes of the board of directors of the company for the meeting held at the house of the late Theodore Havemeyer in December 1900.

DAMAGE REACHES $300,000.

Christmas Storm Costs Telegraph and Telephone Companies Large Sum.

BOSTON, Jan. 8.—The day after Christmas storm cost the telegraph and telephone companies $300,000, according to an estimate made here. The damage extended over an area of 1,000 square miles and prostrated 850 poles and 1,700 miles of wire.

ANOTHER NEW PLAYHOUSE.

Proposed Times Square Theatre, to Be High Class German Resort to Cost $500,000.

Plans for still another Times square theatre in New York, to cost $500,000, have been filed with the building department, and it is promised that the playhouse will be ready by next November. The theatre is to be located just west of the rear of the Lyric Theatre in West Forty-third street about 100 feet from Broadway. It will be contained in a 12-story office building, which will also have club rooms, a concert hall and a roof garden. Back of the scheme is a syndicate of prominent Germans, whose names were not divulged last night.

The architect is Carl Ambrosius. He says it is the purpose of the promoters to make this theatre the home of high-class German plays, probably with a manager from abroad. The entire west of the building will be German, and it is hoped to make it a real home for German life, generally. The cost of the plots of ground is stated to be $180,000 and the probable cost of the building $300,000 more.

"The erection of this theatre will make six new houses in the Times square district north of Forty-second street planned within the last six months. All of them probably will be ready for opening by the first of the next year. The others are the George M. Cohan Theatre, at Forty-third street and Broadway, excavations for which are now under way; the new Shubert Theatre, on Forty-third street, west of Broadway and almost opposite the site of the new German playhouse; W. A. Brady's theatre, on Forty-eighth street, near Broadway, and another Shubert theatre on the same street, and the theatre that is to be a part of the building to be erected on the site of the American Horse Exchange on Broadway, between Fiftieth and Fifty-first streets. The other new playhouses in this neighborhood are the Columbia, opened last Monday night, and the Globe, to be opened next Monday.

BACK AT THE OLD STAND.

But the Assembly Can Hardly be Said to be Doing Business.

Prominence of Newport and the County Again the Subject of Comment.

[Providence correspondence of the News.]

PROVIDENCE, Jan. 8—The legislature is doing business at the old stand again at least it is at the old stand again, though it can hardly be said that it is doing much business yet, any more than it usually does at the beginning of the session.

The new administration was begun with all the ceremony and pomp with which the function has been invested from ancient times. The usual crowd of friends of the members, followers of the party in power and curious sight-seers was there, despite the severe cold and the exposure involved in reaching the State House, set on its bleak hill. These saw the state officials take the oath of office and the marshal go through the foolish performance of standing on a balcony high above the streets, without overcoat but with a high hat on his head, and making proclamation to no one within hearing that the election of these officers had been completed and a new year of the state government had commenced. They heard the cannons boom out the customary salute, saw the two branches of the legislature organize and prepare for the coming weeks of business, shook hands with the governor and his official party and then made the usual rush for the good things provided for the delectation of palates and the satisfying of the cravings of appetites.

In the evening the state house was brightly lighted and there was a gay throng of visitors of high and low degree, who again shook hands with the governor and the other state officials, wandered around the big marble palace and admired its grandeur, and blew down the hill before the wintry blasts of a below-zero night. Then the state house was darkened, the new administration was fairly launched and the dear people and the politicians had done their part toward that result.

There was considerable comment last year about the State House concerning the prominence which Newport and Newport county held in the councils of the Republican party, in control of the state government, and the exceeding good fortune which the members of the legislature from that section had in the distribution of offices and the best places on committees of the two branches. This year that talk has already begun again, for though the committees have not been named it is generally understood that the Newport County members are slated to fare well in the general distribution of the plums, and it has not been overlooked that that county has secured again, as last year, both the Speakership of the house, in the person of Representative Burchard of Little Compton, and the presidency of the senate, in the person of Senator Sanborn of Newport. Newport county is evidently still in the limelight and is apparently again this year destined to loom large on the State House horizon.

Apropos of the re-election of Speaker Burchard, it was noticed that Mr. Shea, the Democratic candidate, received several Republican votes for that position. There was a belief at first that some of the members of his party had voted against Mr. Burchard, but it has since been told that these votes were simply complimentary to Mr. Shea from personal friends among his political enemies, and he would not have received this generous treatment if there had been any degree of doubt concerning the result of the ballot. So even the suspicion of lack of harmony in the Republican ranks has been removed and peace and happiness prevail once more.

In the midst of the gayety of the inauguration and the general felicitations of the first days of the opening session the members did not fail to give a thought to the absence of the late secretary of state, "Charlie" Bennett, as every one knew and called him, and also of two senators and one representative who had died during the past year. Formal recognition of the decease of Mr. Bennett and Senators Whipple and Anthony was taken on the last legislative day of the week by the senate, and next Wednesday similar action will be taken in the house on the decease of Mr. Bennett and of Representative Rabenius. It is not often that as many as four deaths of members and officials occur within a single year.

It seems familiar to the older legislators at the State House this year—to those who have been long in service—to see the face and form of Christopher Champlin of New Shoreham there once more, though it is rather confusing to find him this time on the Republican side rather than on the Democratic where he fought so hard in other years. He has been very quiet as yet in the proceedings, but if he remains in that state of mind long it will be evidence that he has changed radically in other respects than in the complexion of his politics.

Closely following the adoption of the constitutional amendment providing for the election of members of the house of representatives by districts another amendment was proposed on the first legislative day of the session, to elect senators in the same manner. The measure came from the Democratic side of the house, however, and a suggestion proposed from that quarter does not often go far in these days of large Republican majorities and almost hopeless Democratic minorities in the General Assembly, so that the outlook for its reaching the people is not particularly rosy.

Senator McKenna, that stalwart Democratic fighter in the upper branch of the legislature, was on hand the very first day with blocks to throw in the path of the Republican machine. His efforts quite naturally, owing to the small power he has behind him, seldom cause long delay in the progress of that machine, but he never tires of trying and is satisfied if he can do a little to show that he is alive and means to keep up his end of the battle. This time it was over the rules, and of course he lost his point, but he will be ready for the next move just as though he had won the initial round.

The governor made some appointments and re-appointments during the week, the net result of which will be a new harbor commissioner or Republican proclivities to take the place of one who held Democratic views as to the best way to stave ..., change ... and a new member of the board of accountancy in place of one whose death left a vacancy. There will be many more appointments later and probably more ... will ... the case of ... Harman of Newport, to succeed ... board of veterinary ... his new term to end in 1915.

... of the legislature ... the ... in-

... stead of 11 o'clock. This was done ostensibly to accommodate the country members, though it does not appear that any of them asked for the change, and there are suspicions that it was desired more by the city members than by those from outside. It is said that now the sessions will begin promptly instead of the time being allowed to drag along to almost any old hour before the bodies are called to order, but it remains to be seen whether the members will be any more punctual under the new regime than under the old.

The Allens of East Greenwich, father and son, S. W. K. and Thomas A., had to fight to retain their position, the former as commissioner of education and the latter as clerk of the court of Kent county, but they finally won out, though the vote was uncomfortably close in both cases. That contest was the only one worthy of the name in the grand committee meeting, but it was a pretty one.

There is a good deal of talk over the reported plan of the Republicans to have the re-districting commission composed of two Democrats and five or seven Republicans. The Democrats are hot over the alleged intention, but the Republicans are keeping mum and refusing to talk on the subject. From the governor down they are as dumb as oysters on this matter. It is understood, however, that the commission will be appointed next week and then the vexed question will be settled, though if the report proves to be correct the Democrats will have some last words to say on the subject, and they will be strong ones.

There is talk of the creation of a district attorney system in place of the present arrangement of assistant attorneys general, but no one appears to be willing to father the rumor of that intention, and consequently the matter is not causing a very lively interest as yet. Next week it is likely that the usual early flood of legislative bills will commence in the two branches of the legislature.

NAVAL PERSONNEL SITUATION.

The President May Submit a Special Message to Congress Urging Need of Relief.

The naval general board has been considering its plan for relieving the naval personnel situation as incorporated in the draft of legislation which it is expected the President will submit to Congress in the coming week, with a special message. When the proposition was recently presented to Secretary Meyer he believed it would be well to amend it in some minor particulars, and the officers who have been engaged on this work, including Commander John M. Poyer, Commander George W. Logan and Commander Roy C. Smith, have revised the draft of the bill, Commander Smith being summoned to Washington for this purpose from the Naval War College at Newport.

It is understood that the measure of relief, involving increases in the commissioned personnel of the navy, is founded on tonnage on the active register; that is to say, a prescribed number of officers in various grades, according to the displacement of ships which may be regarded as cruising or requiring naval officers on board. If this proposition is sent to Congress, it will meet with some objection in the House and Senate naval committees, it is apprehended, as the same general plan suggested several years ago by Representative Hobson, of Alabama, a member of the House naval committee, failed of approval because it was too indefinite in its effect. The fear has been expressed that it will be possible to take advantage of such an elastic provision, and that the tendency would be to keep in active service vessels which were really not needed and could be more economically kept in reserve.

On the other hand, naval officers say that displacement or tonnage, furnished a very safe basis on which to proceed in providing naval officers, since it is the size and number of vessels, expressed in some aggregate form which should determine the number of officers on the active list in the various grades.

Secretary Meyer will send to Congress nothing which he does not find it possible to recommend as an emergency measure fully sustained by arguments and statistics, which will warrant legislative adoption. The most sanguine naval officers do not believe that anything will be done in the direction of naval personnel relief at the present session, but they realize that a Presidential message on the subject will have desirable influence and bring before Congress the urgent need of relief.

PERSONALS.

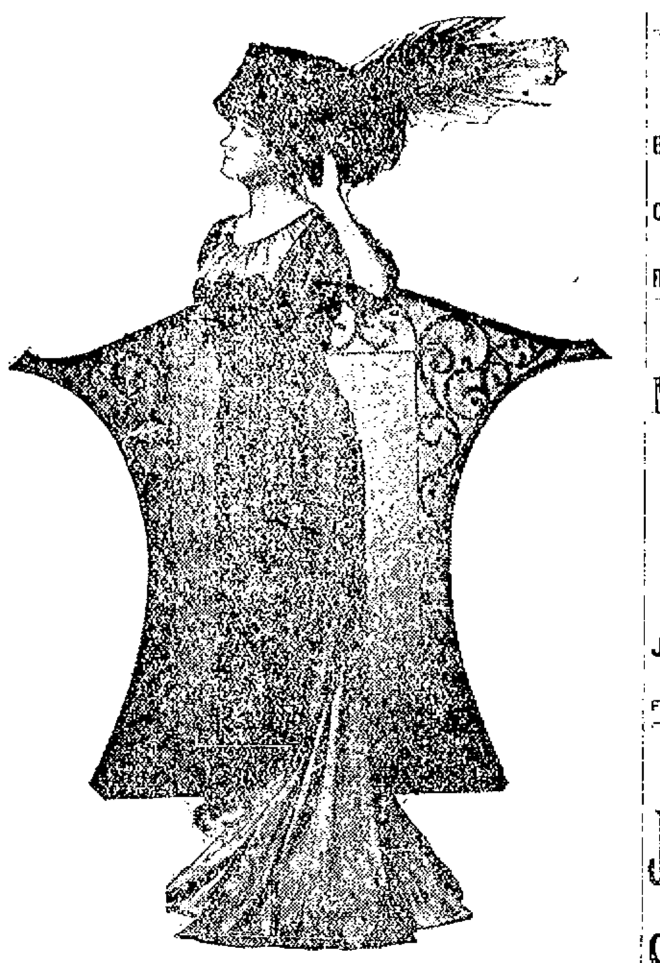

....It is said that, following the official proclamation of the marriage of the late King Leopold and Baroness Vaughan, the Pope sent his official condolence and benediction to the children of the baroness.

....The late Sir Alfred Lewis Jones, head of the English shipowning firm of Elder, Dempster & Co., left the bulk of his fortune of nearly $2,500,000 in trust for charitable objects and for original research into the cause of disease on the west coast of Africa.

....About 75 friends of Austin Dobson honored the poet's seventieth birthday by presenting him with a set of eighteenth century silver, consisting of rose bowl, salver and candlesticks. A birthday dinner was suggested, but the poet was frightened by the prospect of making a speech, even with the best of friends all around him.

....The Campfire Club of America has sent a telegram to Gifford Pinchot, notifying him that it has awarded "a gold medal of honor for his eminent services in the protection of forests and wild life." This is the third medal of honor awarded by the organization during the past six years to some men who has distinguished himself in protecting the forests and wild life. Mr. Pinchot's name was suggested to the board of governors several weeks ago, and when submitted to the members of the club there were only three opposed to it out of 195 votes returned. Former President Roosevelt is an honorary member of the club.

....Professor James Barr Ames, dean of the Harvard Law School and formerly chairman of the athletic committee of the university, died in Wilton, N. H., where he had been staying since last fall, in the hope of regaining his health. Death was due to a general collapse, which followed a nervous breakdown. Mr. Ames was born in Boston in 1846 and was graduated from Harvard University in 1868 and from the Harvard Law School in 1872. He became a tutor in French and German at the university in 1871 in the following year was appointed instructor in history, from 1873 to 1877 was associate professor of law, and since then had been professor. In 1895 Professor Ames was appointed dean of the law school. He was a leading authority on suretyship, admiralty, partnership and equity jurisdiction. Besides being an author of numerous legal reviews. The degree of doctor of laws was conferred on him by Harvard, University of the City of New York, University of Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, Northwestern University and Williams College.

THE FARM-WIFE

[Reginald Wright Kauffman, in Lippincott's.]

Where ends the road across the hill?
I do not know—I do not know;
But all day long and all the night
I long to go—I long to go!

It runs so straight beneath the sun,
So white beneath the moon;
It calls me from my work and dreams,
And I must answer—soon.

I bolt my door, I do my tasks,
I kiss my goodman's cheek—
Yet I cannot hear my baby's laugh
For what the Road would speak.

Where ends the road? I only know
Here, from the pasture-bars,
It is familiar to the sun
And mistress to the stars.

THE THOMAS—OELRICHS WEDDING PLANS.

Mr. and Mrs Charles May Oelrichs have sent out invitations for the marriage of their younger daughter Miss Blanche May Oelrichs, to Mr Leonard W Thomas of Philadelphia Wednesday, January 26, at their home, 325 Park avenue, New York. The ceremony which is to be performed by Monsignor Lavelle, will be private. Miss Cecilia May will be the only attendant of the bride. Mrs. Peter D Martin's little boy Charles, a nephew of the bride, and Mrs. Reginald C Vanderbilt's small daughter Kathleen, will serve as train bearers. William S ... will be the best man, and the ushers will be W O'Donnell Iselin, William Post, T. Markoe Robertson, Adolphe Borie, Charles DeLoosey and Harry E Oelrichs and James Barnes. Only near relatives and intimate friends have been asked to the wedding, but about 100 invitations have been issued for the seated wedding breakfast which is to follow.

"HARD AS NAILS."

Navy Retiring Board Does Not Find Lieutenant Commander Reeves Incapacitated for Duty.

After appearing before the retiring board Lieutenant Commander Joseph M. Reeves, ordnance officer of the Atlantic fleet, and one time famous navy football tackle, is preparing to go on board the Connecticut and continue to active service. The retiring board has found him to be incapacitated for duty, despite the fact that he failed to complete with Mr. Roosevelt's prescribed 50-mile walk, but ... naval officers ... with ... of the retiring board ... Reeves was found "hard as nails" so far as performing any ordinary duty of a naval officer was concerned, and that the fact that he could not walk 50 miles or ride a horse 90 miles had little connection with his fitness.

There is a growing tendency in naval circles to regard the physical test as something of a joke, as the retiring board is not disposed to rid the service of its most competent officers simply because they are not good walkers or skilled horsemen or champions in pedaling a bicycle.

ADMIRAL SEBREE'S FLAGSHIP.

On the arrival of the Pacific fleet at Honolulu, about February 1, Rear Admiral Sebree, commander-in-chief, will transfer his flag from the Tennessee to the California or the South Dakota. The Tennessee and the Washington will then proceed direct from Honolulu to the Puget Sound navy yard, where they will be put in trim for the trip around the Horn to join the special cruiser squadron on its visit to Buenos Ayres on the occasion of the centennial celebration of the independence of Argentina.

PATRONAGE AND CONGRESS.

If Victor Rosewater was authorized by the President to make the explanation which he has offered of the President's attitude toward the more independent members of Congress the appearance of the situation is by no means improved. To take care of your friends and ignore or punish your enemies is human nature in politics, but to withhold from members of Congress patronage until their votes have been secured is gross, open, palpable trading or forcing, which strikes the spectator unpleasantly.

The same sort of thing was done by Speaker Cannon in the last session of Congress, when he kept back the committee assignments until the tariff bill had been passed, and then gave the good appointments to supporters of the measure and displaced the opponents from any desirable places which they held. There is this to be said in behalf of the Speaker, that he was elected by a majority of the House and that majority was disposed to pass the tariff bill, and what the Speaker did was done as the leader of his side of the House.

According to Mr. Rosewater, the President recognizes "a well founded custom that has become almost a rule, that in making certain appointments, such as postmasters, the President should act on recommendation of members of Congress in whose districts the appointments lie, if represented by members of the same political party. This obligation resting upon the President, however, is reciprocal, he feels. The Republican Congressman, he declares, is under a similar obligation to support administration measures."

This so-called reciprocity is a little too gross; the log-rolling element is too conspicuous. If the President gives appointments to Republicans instead of Democrats, and to Republicans of his way of thinking instead of to other Republicans, there is little to be said except that it is the way of the world. When the President holds up appointments until he shall have secured the vote of a doubtful member the commercialism of the transaction lacks the dignity which decency demands.

PERSISTENCE IN PHYSICAL EXERCISE.

Interest in physical development is constantly on the increase and is becoming well-nigh universal. All the various outdoor games—such as tennis, base ball, football, rowing and golf—have thousands of enthusiastic followers and nearly every college in the country has its well equipped gymnasium and competent instructors. Nearly every school, however small, has a course in physical instruction, with a few exercises at different times of the day, and nearly every large club or association in the cities has its athletic department, which is well patronized by both young and old and furnishes one of the principal sources of the club's receipts.

In view of all this activity it would seem as if we might look for more widespread and wholesome results. We might expect to see about us a majority of people at least fairly healthy and robust, whose physique the old Greeks might envy and whose endurance in the press of business life would be marvelous. Yet such is not the case and the reason is that the average business man who at first goes in strong for athletics soon finds he has not the time to spare to devote to what he is apt to consider a fad.

The average man will confess that he ought to take exercise, but will say he has not time and often has not energy to go through the elaborate preparations necessary. To secure an hour's work in the gymnasium means at least as much time spent in going there and preparing for class work and with the hurried journey, the dressing and the exercise a man after an hour's hard work is likely to find himself thoroughly exhausted. He discovers that an hour of such exercise means two or three hours of strenuous exertion, and this coming after a day's work in shop or office is too much for him, at first at least, and so he decides to give up the whole thing and rely for the exercise he needs for his health on the walk home from home to office.

This is one of the mistakes which the average man of business makes. He is too easily discouraged. If he would persist and take the time from his business a few days each week to indulge in a course of physical exercise on a scientific plan he would usually find that he was repaid many times for the time and money involved. He would not only find himself much benefited as regards his general health, with his brain clearer, his nerves stronger and his whole body well built up to withstand the hurry and press of the life of the business man of today, but his whole life would take on a brighter hue and he would realize that being stronger and healthier he would be in condition to conduct his business affairs more successfully than before exercising regularly. Physical development is one of the things which is more and more considered essential to the health and consequent success of every one in these days of rush and hurry, and the more followers it has the better men we shall have in the business world, and the better citizens.

KNOX'S PROPOSED INTERNATIONAL TRIBUNAL.

Secretary Knox thinks there might be more arbitration if there were an international tribunal always open, and says with some force that it is easier to appeal to a court in session than to agree on the creation of a court. Therefore he has made overtures to several foreign nations to extend the jurisdiction of the international prize court enough to make it a court of arbitral justice.

There is force in the Secretary's general proposition, but not much in its application. This international prize court would only potentially be in continuous existence as a matter of fact. It will be in session only when there is war and prizes are captured and are subject to adjudication. Besides, an arbitration tribunal has already been provided by the Hague Conference potentially. The court is not in continuous session because it is only occasionally that there would be business for its consideration but it is not necessary for two disputatious nations to come to an agreement about a tribunal to pass on their differences. It is only necessary that they should agree to refer their difficulties to a tribunal, the composition and authority of which have already been provided by the Hague Conference and the ratifications of the various governments parties thereto.

There are means enough of averting war if nations are sufficiently anxious to do so to run some risk of securing less than their demands. Of course arbitration is more likely to be employed if it is easy and Mr. Knox is correct in saying that it is easier to refer a dispute to an existing court than to agree on the creation of one after a dispute has arisen. The great obstacle to international arbitration, however, is the obstacle to the arbitration of disputes between individuals, which occurs seldom. One of the two disputants is satisfied with the status quo and has no disposition to yield possession unless compelled to do so. The individual can be compelled to come into court or suffer judgment to be taken against him by default, but the nation is disposed to keep out of court until things are set up so that it believes it will win, except of course in minor matters about which it does not care.

"C. Q. D." FOR FUN.

When the amateur wireless operators begin sending out the general alarm message "C. Q. D." just for fun and to see if any one will answer them it is evidently time to impose some restrictions upon amateur telegraphy if any means of accomplishing this can be devised. If a person shouts "Fire!" without the warrant of necessity the police will attend to him promptly enough, and it is a more serious matter to send out this wireless signal, which has had such significance since the accident to the Republic, merely to see if any one will pay attention to it.

The logs of several revenue cutters show that the interference of amateurs with wireless commercial or emergency messages is a common thing. Each of several cutters has reported a long list of such acts and other vessels than revenue cutters, if provided with wireless apparatus, must have the same experience, though the trouble is mostly near the coast. One of the cutters was prevented for several hours from sending an important government message because some amateur with a more powerful apparatus than that on the cutter continued to [illegible]. When this obstructor was asked to keep still for a while in order to allow the government message to be sent he replied with profane impudence.

On the strength of these reports from several revenue cutters Mr. Roberts of Massachusetts has introduced a bill for the creation of a commission to regulate the practice of amateur wireless telegraphy. The details will need to be worked out by the commission when appointed. It is not at all certain now what can be done, but the apparatus can hardly be concealed; it is a rather conspicuous piece of mechanism. Therefore it is thought that licenses may be required and unlicensed stations be suppressed. Evidently the use of wireless apparatus by persons who are merely amusing themselves has already become a nuisance and may easily become a menace, and some way of protecting the legitimate and important use of the apparatus should be devised.

The Republican leaders in Congress are said to have decided to enact legislation in line with the recommendations of President Taft for changes in the interstate commerce law. They will, however, not agree to a federal corporation law, but the President will be satisfied, it is said, if the most important features of his recommendations become law. As for the rest he will be content with having made the public acquainted with his views on the general subject of trusts, good and bad, and how they should be differentiated and controlled.

It is generally believed in Providence that the income tax amendment to the national constitution will not be approved by the General Assembly. Senator Aldrich's opposition to the enactment of such laws is believed to have made the action of the legislature a foregone conclusion. The Republican state convention in its platform did not commit itself on the question, declaring that the subject should be left for the unbiased consideration of the legislators. The legislators will undoubtedly attend to it.

Following the announcement of the license commissioners, the licensed liquor saloons were closed "tight" Sunday, and in every respect, so far as could be seen, the law was not violated by them. But how about the unlicensed places? Did the police see that they did not sell liquor? The commissioners have done their part in closing the licensed places, and the police ought to see that the unlicensed places are put out of business.

Boston is to hold its municipal election tomorrow, and each of the four candidates for mayor claims the election, on widely varying figures. Mr. Storrow's friends claim a victory for him by a large and decisive plurality. ex-Mayor Fitzgerald expects his election by 15,000, Mayor Hibbard thinks he will be chosen by about 9,000, and Taylor puts his plurality at "thousands." We shall all know who is elected when the votes are counted.

The "no school" signal came this morning in good season to allow the boys a chance to clear sidewalks of the freshly fallen snow.

A SCHOOL FOR THE MOUNTAIN WHITES.

[Human Life.]

There is no more exceptional educational institution in America than the Berry School for mountain whites, near Rome, Ga., and yet the whole work grew out of a little Sunday school that Miss Martha Berry established in the mountains near Possum Trot, Ga., less than 10 years ago.

At that time Miss Berry was residing on an estate which was all that was left of the fortune of the Southern family to which she belonged. In taking her walks she was impressed by the desolate condition of the mountain children. Their parents were too poor to supply them with anything more than the barest necessities of life, and they were growing up in utter indifference to everything pertaining to education. To remedy this to a small degree she invited a number of them to meet her every Sunday at a little cabin she owned, and there undertook to teach them a few of the things they most needed to know.

At the time Miss Berry had no thought of establishing a permanent school. Instead of being a temporary affair, however, the school soon made itself an institution practically without any effort on her part. So far as the children of the "poor whites" were concerned they not only crowded her cabin to more than its full capacity every Sunday but they finally came to her with the request that a day school be added.

For a time it looked as if the movement had come to a point beyond which it could not go, but finally Miss Berry screwed up sufficient courage to make a trip to the North that she might tell some of the rich philanthropists about her "poor whites" boys and her mountain school. It was an interesting story that she had to tell, and she told it so well that she went back to her pupils with funds sufficient not only to maintain the school but to enlarge it. Today the school has 1,000 acres of land, much of it under cultivation, and several fine buildings in which 15 teachers are kept busy instructing the 150 pupils, not only in the studies of the ordinary school but in the useful trades as well. Miss Berry is now engaged in raising an endowment fund sufficient to support it and has already secured $[illegible] each from Andrew Carnegie and Mrs. Russell Sage.

A NOTABLE PASTOR

[New York Tribune.]

The death of the pastor of the Brick Presbyterian Church recently ended a life of much sweetness and beauty and a public career of more than ordinary usefulness to the community. There are probably other ministers in this city who are better known to the general public, but it may be doubted if there is one who has labored more earnestly or more efficiently to do the real work of the pastor of a numerous, wealthy and exacting congregation. The church which was his is one of the historic churches of New York, and it is one which has not declined with age but rather has continued to increase in numbers and influence, in the variety and scope of its activities, and therefore in the demands which it makes upon its pastor's time and strength. How well Dr. Richards served it as spiritual exhorter and guide, as intellectual instructor, as administrator of practical affairs and as the tender and intimate personal resort [illegible] of sympathy and consolation, cannot be told but must be deeply realized by those who had the privilege of association with him.

The example of his life affords what should be a convincing answer to those who are querulously inquiring how the churches are to be filled and how the people are to be interested in them. Here was a preacher who sought no adventitious aids to attract attention, yet who never lacked a great and deeply interested congregation. Here was a pastor who never indulged in exploits outside the limits of pastoral duty, yet who never was distressed by desertions from his parish. Here was a religious teacher who sought no new fantasies of faith and who discarded none of the vital and robust doctrines of his belief and yet who never had occasion to lament the decline of faith or the failure of Christianity to lay hold upon the hearts and lives of men and women. His was a living example of the way in which to make the churches prosperous and Christianity a triumphant force in the world; and it will remain a living and potent example as his deeds were in his life.

AROUND RHODE ISLAND.

Memorial to Governor Harris and Family in Phenix Church.

Fortieth Anniversary of a Providence Sunday School—Shot by a Highwayman.

The memory of Governor Elisha Harris, his wife and daughter, to whose benefactions of half a century ago is due in large part the material prosperity of the Phenix Methodist Episcopal Church was honored Sunday by the church congregation and society. A beautiful bronze tablet, purchased through subscriptions, made by the parishioners and friends, was unveiled at the morning service. The sermon was delivered by the pastor, Rev. Arthur Wadsworth. William V. Slocum and his wife, who are the only surviving members now living in that section, participated in the event of 50 years ago. Mr. Slocum gave Sunday an interesting historical address, including personal reminiscences of Governor Harris. At the close of his address the tablet was unveiled by Mrs. Slocum. The semi centennial of the erection of the church building was observed in September last, with a series of exercises, and it was at this celebration that the idea was evolved and plans laid for placing in the church a suitable memorial for the Harris family. The tablet, made of bronze, is in position on the wall at the left entrance to the main auditorium, and bears the following inscription: "In grateful remembrance of Governor Elisha Harris, his wife, Sarah T. Harris, and daughter, Elizabeth A. P. Harris, who by their devotion and consecrated wealth, made possible the erection of this church." The inscription bears at the base the dates 1859-1909.

The fortieth anniversary of the founding of the Cranston Street Baptist Sunday School was observed with appropriate exercises Sunday and will be concluded with a banquet this evening. At the church service Sunday morning the pastor, Rev. L. L. Henson, D. D., preached the anniversary sermon. At noon the dedication of the Moses Homan Bixby memorial diploma took place, with Rev. Thomas E. Bartlett as the speaker. In the evening Rev. Dr. O. P. Gifford of Brookline, Mass., preached. This evening the annual Sunday School banquet at former Governor George H. Utter will deliver an address on "Carving," and there will be brief speeches by Sunday School Superintendent Herbert D. Cleverly and former Superintendents Robert R. Holden, Francis E. Bates and Herbert E. Maine. Rev. Dr. Henson will also speak and a historical sketch, written by Miss A. M. Barrows, a charter member of the school, will be ready by Miss M. C. Bockwith. The Sunday school was founded in 1870 by Rev. Moses H. Bixby, who was then a missionary to Burmah, but at home on sick leave. He erected the chapel at his own risk and later secured the funds to pay off enough of the cost to make it possible to secure a mortgage for the rest. The Sunday School is nine months older than the church, the fortieth anniversary of which will be celebrated next October.

Because he refused to obey instantly and allow himself to be robbed without a struggle, Gilbert Mann, coachman for Colonel Webster Knight, was shot twice in the abdomen and probably fatally injured by a highwayman on the Hartford pike, near Waterman's woods in Johnston Saturday afternoon. Mr. Williams, who was with Mann in the carriage, submitted to the orders of the robber and was not injured. Mr. Mann was in a serious condition last evening and may not recover. An operation was performed Sunday, and while the bullets were not located the character of the injuries inflicted was disclosed. Before the operation the surgeons feared that the bullets had punctured the stomach and intestines. This proved not to be the fact. One bullet penetrated the pleural cavity of the left lung. The other entered near the middle of the body, rupturing several blood vessels. The stomach and intestines escaped injury. Footprints in the snow, leading both to and from the scene of the shooting were traced by Chief of Police Kimball of Johnston. The prints establishing the fact that the highwayman came from and went to Manton. Just outside Manton the trail was lost by the police because the snow from that point is melted.

At the rooms of the Young Men's Catholic Association in Pawtucket Saturday evening, there was a gathering of delegates from numerous organizations throughout the state, for the purpose of forming a union of Catholic organizations of a character similar to the National Union and Catholic Amateur Athletic League. The guest of the evening was National President William C. Sullivan of Washington, and it is stated that it is the purpose of those chiefly interested in the gathering to make Pawtucket the centre of the campaign now going on. Among the organizations represented were the Cathedral Club, Columbus Union and Assumption Club of Providence; St. Teresa Club of Olneyville, Catholic Institute Association of Valley Falls, and the St. Joseph's and St. Mary's Unions of Pawtucket. There was an interesting discussion regarding the best methods of starting a campaign. A committee was selected, and it was voted that there should be another meeting. President Sullivan was given a reception previous to the meeting, and in the course of the evening explained the purpose of the gathering. There were other speakers, and it is believed that a strong organization will result from this and the other meetings to follow.

An application for a charter for a new savings bank, to be known as the International Exchange Bank of Providence, has been filed with the board of bank incorporation. The application is the first of the sort since the board was established by the enactment of the new banking act. The application gives the capital stock of the new institution at $100,000. All of the stock has not yet been subscribed, but it is expected, it is said, that there will be no difficulty in this matter. Mariano Vervena, the Italian consular agent in Providence, is the moving spirit in the new organization, although the fact that he is not an American citizen prohibits his taking any direct part in the bank's affairs. Mr. Vervena now has a private bank with a branch. These will be taken over by the new concern and for the time being the two present banking houses will be used by the new institution. It is understood that Mr. Vervena's interest in the new bank will give him practical control. It is the intention to secure the services of some skilled banker of the city to take charge of the new institution.

President Lawrence V. Benet of the American Chamber of Commerce in Paris, France, in an interview gives a Pawtucket concern the credit of selling more machines and tools in that country than any other American firm. He says the Potter & Johnston Company's salesman, a Mr. Ryan, in 1907 sold Pawtucket-made tools to the value of $400,000, and in five years has sold for the firm a particular machine, bringing in a total business of more than $1,000,000. President Benet's statement was in reply to an inquiry made by Captain Godfrey L. Carden, a special agent of the United States, now in Paris investigating American selling methods and opportunities for the extension of American trade in that country.

Henry G. Thresher and Harry Cutler, representing the New England Manufacturing Jewelers' and Silversmiths' Association, called on President Taft at the White House Saturday and invited the President to attend the mid-winter banquet of the association, which will be held in Providence March 21, and he accepted. Senator Aldrich assured Messrs. Thresher and Cutler that he would attend the banquet, and Senator Wetmore will also be invited.

Commander Robert E. Peary, discoverer of the North Pole, is coming to Providence to deliver a lecture Wednesday evening, January 19. The proceeds will be used to aid the Society for Organizing Charity in its work. The famous explorer will tell the story of his successful trip to the top of the earth, and his description of the experiences of his party in the frozen North will be made entertaining by illustrations thrown on a screen.

The receipts from the sale of Red Cross Christmas stamps in Rhode Island to date amount to $2,872.56, according to an announcement from Secretary Wallace Hatch. This figure will be increased materially when all the returns have been received. Of the present fund $2,510.42 has been received from stamps sold in Providence and the balance, $262.14, comes from Pawtucket, Cranston, Greenville, Slocum and Wickford.

FATHER MATHEW WINS.

Takes Easy Game from St. Andrew's, Providence—Algonkins Intermediates Lose in New Bedford.

The Father Mathew Society's basket ball team added another to its string of victories Saturday evening, defeating the St. Andrew's of Providence by a score of 60 to 23. The game was witnessed by a gathering of about 200 persons and was interesting in spite of the unevenness of the score.

Father Mathew started the scoring and did much of the playing in the first half, which ended 26 to 7 in their favor. In the first part of the second half the St. Andrew's players did better and ran their score up to 23. In the latter part they gave indications of being tired and devoted their energies chiefly to defensive tactics.

The Father Mathew team played a fast game throughout. Towards the end of the second half Fitzsimmons, who was not in his usual good condition, retired, D. Sullivan taking his place at centre and Kirwin going in at right back, in Sullivan's place. St. Andrew's brought down eight players and shifted the line-up considerably during the game, using all eight men.

The visitors were apparently not accustomed to playing on a slippery floor, and were not very successful in keeping their feet. The Father Mathew team scored 32 points to their opponents' 16 in the second half. The line-up was as follows:

Father Mathew.	St. Andrew's.
Martin, r. f.	l. b., Osterman, Schofield, Moore
J. Sullivan, l. f.	r. b., Dobson
Fitzsimmons, D. Sullivan, c.	c., Monson
D. Sullivan, Kirwin, r. b.	l. f., Schofield, Dunbar
Byrnes, l. b.	r. f., Kyle

Score—Father Mathew 60, St. Andrew's 23. Goals from floor—Martin 10, J. Sullivan 3, Fitzsimmons, D. Sullivan 7, Byrnes 5, Kirwin 3; Dobson 3, Monson, Kyle 3, Schofield 4. Goals from fouls—J. Sullivan 2; Monson 3. Referee—J. Roach. Umpire—P. Stark. Time—Twenty-minute halves.

The Algonkin Intermediates went to New Bedford Saturday, playing a return game with the Wamsutta team, the latter winning by the close score of 16 to 15. Each made seven goals from the floor, the Wamsuttas winning on goals from fouls by one point. The line-up was as follows:

Wamsutta	Algonkins
W. Beaumont, r. f.	l. b., Kershay
Crumblehome, l. f.	r. b., Armstrong
Cassidy, c.	c., Thompson, Greason
H. Beaumont, r. b.	l. f., Hershman
Hesford, Shelburne, l. b.	r. f., Moore

Score—Wamsutta 16, Algonkin Intermediates 15. Goals from floor—W. Beaumont 3, Crumblehome, Cassidy 2, H. Beaumont; Kershay, Thompson 2, Greason, Hershman, Moore 2. Goals from fouls—Crumblehome 2; Moore. Referee—Deane. Timer—Fowler. Time—Twenty-minute halves.

PROBATE COURT

In the probate court this morning letters of administration on the estate of Herbert C. Albro were granted to Alexander O'D. Taylor and on the estate of Julia A. Anthony to Philip Anthony, notice being waived. The first and final account of the guardian of Melville Malcom and the first and final account of the administrator of the estate of Martha King were allowed and ordered recorded and the balance of the King estate was ordered distributed to the heirs at law. The motion for a bill of particulars on the estate of Richard Fitzgerald was denied.

The petition for leave for guardian to mortgage real estate of Albert G. Groff, Jr., was continued to January 14, and the petition for the probate of the will of Hannah Stacy, and the petition for a decree of unfaithful administration on the estate of Richard Fitzgerald to January 15.

There was quite an array of legal talent present in two of the cases. In the Stacy will case Messrs. Callaghan and Barney represented the executors, Mr. Brown represented Mrs. Norman and Mr. Levy represented Mrs. Weaver. In the Fitzgerald case Messrs. Callaghan and Barney represented the administrator and Messrs. Nolan and Keehan the petitioners.

A WILD WEST RUNAWAY.

There was a sort of Wild West runaway on Kay street Saturday. The horse of a grocer's wagon ran away, and the driver of another grocer's wagon thought he saw an opportunity of winning fame by stopping it. He put his horse to top speed, and soon the two vehicles were side by side. He failed to cut in ahead as he had hoped to do, and the two wagons struck. Immediately the runaway horse took to [illegible], and did not come to a stop until he was in a dooryard, having [illegible] over and through a hedge.

JOHNSON WILL CASE TRANSFERRED TO NEW YORK.

The contest over the will of Mrs. Caroline E. Johnson (Mrs. Hezron A. Johnson), who was a summer resident of Newport, and left $2,000,000, is transferred from Massachusetts to New York, her former domicile, by a decision of the full bench of the Massachusetts supreme court, sent down in the case of Charles S. Backemeir, executor, vs. Josephine W. (Mrs. Meryl A. O.) Taylor and Fanny J. Johnson, daughters, who are contestants.

Mrs. Johnson died in New York in 1905, but had not been domiciled in Massachusetts since 1847, having spent 58 years of her life in New York. The contest of the will is upon the ground of alleged undue influence on the part of a nephew, Ellerton P. Whitney, of Milton, who acted as agent, and the alleged unsoundness of mind of Mrs. Johnson.

ADMIRAL NAZRO MAY RETIRE

Rear Admiral Arthur P. Nazro, commandant of the naval station at Olongapo, Philippine Islands, and now on his way to the United States, probably will be ordered before a retiring board this winter. He is now under orders to go to the naval hospital at Philadelphia [illegible]. He is one of the youngest admirals. It is understood that he was unable to take the physical test last year on account of physical disability.

GAS COMPANY ELECTION.

At the annual meeting of the Newport Gas Light Company, today, the following were elected:

President—Henry Bull.
Secretary—Thomas A. Lawton.
Treasurer—Andrew K. Quinn.
Directors—Henry Bull, T. A. Lawton, Andrew K. Quinn, William H. Hunter, Packer Braman.

Mr. Hunter was elected to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Dr. W. T. Bull and Mr. Braman to fill the place of the late president, Congressman Melville Bull.

WILL NOT SUPPORT MANCHURIAN PLAN.

while disinclined to express their opinions, certainly do not support the project.

To the foreign commercial element the whole thing appears impracticable. Count Hayashi, former minister of foreign affairs, in an interview today said: "It amounts to a confiscation by the powers of Japan's rights in Manchuria secured as a reward of the heavy expenditure of blood and treasure. The popular sentiment is certainly violently opposed to the proposition." Count Hayashi compared the present situation with that which followed the Japanese and Chinese war in 1895, when the powers outmanoeuvred Japan and secured the rights for which she had fought. He insisted that Japan was observing consistently the convention with the United States, preserving the integrity of China and maintaining the principle of the open door and equal opportunity.

The Kokumin, a semi-official organ, representing the views of Premier Katsura, says that the Japanese reply to the American note will be couched in friendly terms because the suggestion comes from a friendly power, but, at the same time, inquires whether Germany and France would be willing to neutralize Shantung and Yunnan provinces.

The highest authority is given for the assurance that there is not the slightest foundation for current reports that Japan is menacing Russia. The relations and interests of the two governments are said to be closer than ever before.

WIRES WORKING FAIRLY.

Only About 100 Telephones Out, but Long-Distance Communication Slow and Telegraphing Troublesome.

The telephone company reported today about 100 instruments out of commission, which went out of action during the storm two weeks ago. It is now only isolated trouble with which the repair gangs have to deal, trunk lines and districts where there are many telephones having been quite generally been cleared up. The present work of course is likely to entail much travel to restore a single telephone, and hence the clearing will not go along by such leaps as has been the case. This week will probably return things to normal conditions so far as working telephones are concerned, but there will then be plenty of reconstruction work, as the hurried temporary shifts will need to be given more permanency.

While so many telephones were out the operators have been having somewhat quiet times, but now they are having all the calls they require to keep them busy. On the other hand, all the other employes have been kept on the jump day, night and Sundays. Even this morning, when it was snowing hardest, a gang went out on the island to continue work. The rainy days last week made things rather hard for the men, as much of their work, especially that having to do with cables, requires that the connections be kept perfectly dry if they are to be of use.

Long-distance telephoning still has its limitations; that is, the number of lines is limited and the amount of business is excessive for the two lines working, so there are long waits for connections and talk is limited to three minutes. The situation is expected to better later in the week.

The telegraph companies are improving slowly, but their wires are full of trouble on damp days and no extensive improvement can be expected until much reconstruction work has been done.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Mr. George H. Carr is confined to his home with an attack of the grip.

—Miss Julia Brown and Miss Etta Muenchinger have gone to New York to study art.

—The condition of Mr. Henry C. Stevens, who has been ill for a few days, was reported as being better this afternoon.

—Sunday Mr. Benjamin Williams received news from New York of the sudden death of his mother, Mrs. George Williams, who left here at Christmas time to visit relatives. Mrs. Williams was an old resident. Her husband died last November, in his eighty-fifth year, after he and Mrs. Williams had celebrated their [illegible] wedding anniversary. In addition to those two deaths, so close together, Mr. Williams learned of the death of a nephew in New York Saturday night.

MR. FENNO'S VISIT.

Addresses the Men at the Army and Navy Peanut Social and at the Sunday Services.

The gathering at the Saturday evening peanut social at the Army and Navy Young Men's Christian Association was so much larger than usual that a move into the big dormitory was necessary in order to accommodate all comers. Men from Forts Adams and Greble and from the naval stations to the number of 250 took advantage of the opportunity for a good time. After all were comfortably settled P. M. Kendrick of the Reina Mercedes sang a solo and accompanied on the piano the singing of one or two songs by the audience. Apprentice Seaman J. N. Stew recited "The Boston Burglar" but gave it a new turn by introducing into it the subject of the "U. S. A." to the amusement of his fellows. Charles Coffey, well known to his mates at the Training Station as an entertaining singer, pleased his audience with two songs, "The Jungle Honeymoon" and "Satisfied with Life."

A strong feature of the evening was the singing of two Scotch dialect songs, "Rob Roy McIntosh" and "I Love a Lassie," by Mr. John Gordon, who came in to help entertain. John Severson, apprentice seaman, did his share in furnishing amusement. With R. R. Walter accompanying him on the piano, he sang an amusing "Laughing Song," also giving a step dance and following it with jokes and stories. Apprentice Seaman J. E. Mullins sang well the song "No One Knows." The evening's entertainment was concluded with songs by N. J. Clavner, the "little director," and J. Silverstein, Clavner's selections comprised sentimental songs and some humorous dialect pieces which raised a laugh.

Mr. W. H. Fenno, of the international committee, began his [illegible] with the enlisted men of this vicinity by addressing those at the peanut social in a brief but earnest manner, expressing a desire to meet them in the evangelistic meetings which he is to conduct for ten days. Mr. Fenno attended the communion service at the Thames Street Methodist Episcopal Church Sunday morning and consented to speak at that church next Sunday.

C. B. Anderson and H. W. Smith of the Bible training class are teaching [illegible]. [illegible] was conducted Sunday in order to allow time for a [illegible] address by Mr. Fenno. Mr. Fenno [illegible] of the importance of [illegible] and cultivating the spiritual life [illegible].

[illegible]

Next Sunday afternoon the women of the [illegible] Church will have [illegible] the evening the church [illegible] Association [illegible] will attend the army and navy service at that church. Mr. Fenno will address the meeting.

NOT MUCH OF A STORM.

Though It Seemed as if Newport Might be Snowed In, the Fall Was Comparatively Small.

There were indications early this morning that Newport was to be snowed in, but it was a false alarm and there was only a little fall of snow, which did not even make good sleighing. After looking like snow all day Sunday and in the evening it began early in the morning hours. It came thick and dry and was a regular smother for a while, causing the fog bells and whistles to go into action, so that many in their beds learned by these signals that it had come.

When the snow began to make something the railways called out their snow-fighting forces and cleared their tracks, but at no time was it much of a fight, though there was quite a little wind and the snow showed a tendency to drift. The drifts were barely a foot deep in places which usually receive about all that is coming, so it was not much of a storm after all.

After a little lull it set in heavy again a little before 8 o'clock and at that time, there being no signs of clearing, the no-school signal for large and small pupils was sent out. Then it cleared.

The highway department soon had its shovelers at work clearing crossings and the walks in front of business places were also cleared, with most of the residential walks left for an [illegible] tonight, when the head of the family returns from his day's labors.

ENUMERATORS NEEDED.

Newport Among the Places in This State Where More Census Employes Are Required.

Colonel George H. Webb, supervisor of the national census for Rhode Island, announces that enumerators are needed for the cities of Newport, Pawtucket and Central Falls and the towns of Bristol, Coventry, Cranston, Cumberland, Lincoln, North Providence, North Smithfield, Burrillville and Woonsocket. The tests of the qualifications of applicants for appointment will be held in Providence February 5 and all applications must be filed before January 27. After the tests Commissioner Webb will examine and rate the papers until about February 22, when he will forward his list of designations of enumerators, with the best papers, to Census Director Durand, who will carefully go over and select the personnel of the successful candidates, [illegible] giving his consent to the issuance of commissions to them by the supervisor. By the middle or latter part of March all the enumerators will have been commissioned and in receipt of detailed instructions concerning their work.

HANDSOME CALENDARS.

Mr. T. B. Connolly, plumber, has issued a calendar which is full of "class," as it must be, since it is an Osborne. "When the Fox Hunt" is the title and the picture portrays the interior of an English manor house, with a gathering of [illegible] the course of a [illegible] over which they [illegible].

A PREY OF ADVENTURERS.

Sultan Abdul Aziz of Morocco a Mark for All European Commercial Schemers.

During the last five years of his reign, the Sultan Abdul Aziz of Morocco was a prey of European commercial adventurers, who well understood his taste for everything western, whether it was the newest invention or objects from the European [illegible].

Prodigious was the quantity of automobiles, phonographs and cameras that certain unscrupulous people succeeded in selling him. Most of these objects are what the French call "rossignols," that is to say things long out of date. These schemers succeeded even in selling him, [illegible] cleverly brightened up with some clear, highly-colored paint, the old, worn-out omnibuses of the Batignolles-Montparnasse and Odeon-Clichy lines, which have been replaced by the modern motor bus. This was but the beginning of great impositions that were to follow. A man named Holmes, a French Jew of German origin, wormed his way into the sultan's confidence and, by his eloquence and insinuating manner, convinced Abdul Aziz that such a sovereign as he should possess crown jewels like the great kings of Europe and the monarchs of the Orient.

Unlike Persia and Turkey, the treasury of Morocco contained very few of the wonderful jewels that we are used to consider as the indispensable attributes of a sultan. Some chased gold armor and [illegible] ornamented with [illegible], an assortment of necklaces [illegible] jewels of the less expensive variety, a miscellaneous array of rings, these were the only products of the jeweler's art then among the sultan's treasures.

Holmes played on the sultan's weakness and ended by persuading Abdul Aziz to buy of some great Parisian dealers that I know" treasures to the amount of $4,500,000. And what jewels! All the crude, fantastic designs for settings were picked up either in Paris or in the provinces and were set with stones half of which were false, "Scientific" rubies and "synthetic" sapphires masqueraded as the real stones, and the sultan was happy when he saw the diamonds shine through their many flaws and fractures—when, indeed, they were diamonds at all, for many ornaments of these royal jewels were taken up with simple colored glass. However, some of the emeralds, pearls, topazes, amethysts and sapphires were of the first quality. The gold was of the lowest European standard, 14 karats, and often it was only [illegible] gold [illegible] inside.

In the beginning of 1907, when the sultan was short of money and could not find any more credit even at the state bank in Morocco, when defeat and rout were facing him on every side and when tribe after tribe was deserting him and going to join the ranks of his usurping brother, Mulai Hafid, he sent the ever faithful secretary of state, El Mokri, to Paris to negotiate a loan on the security of the crown jewels of Morocco. Great was the consternation in the camp of the believers when the expert jewelers of the Rue de la Paix smiled derisively and with a shrug of their shoulders informed the anxious El Mokri of the worth of the jewels. The highest bidder among them only offered $150,000.

Tired of bargaining and going from place to place, El Mokri at last went to the Mont de Piete, the government pawnshop of Paris. There, probably with the intention of favoring him, he was offered $200,000. Under the suspicion that there existed a mutual understanding among the jewellers or persons having any connection with the jewellers to gain his treasures by putting up the least possible cash, El Mokri decided to go to London. The offers he received in the British capital were very much lower than those of Paris. He quickly returned to the latter city, and after numerous audiences with M. Pichon and M. Clemenceau, and frequent consultations between these dignitaries and the Parisian commissioners of the Mont de Piete, it was decided to grant a loan of $400,000 on the condition that Morocco would guarantee the loan, and when the time arrived reimburse the Mont de Piete. As every one knows, Abdul Aziz lost his throne and with it almost his entire fortune.

It was not to be expected that Mulai Hafid would reimburse the French government for money lent to fight against himself, hence the auction sale of the crown jewels of Morocco which is about to take place.

TAKING THE SURNAME OF A BRIDE.

(Denver Republican.)

It is one thing to ask a girl to marry—quite another to ask her to change her name. So thinks the man who used to be John Melephant Williams. He loved Miss Agnes A. Wood, but it was as Agnes A. Wood that he loved her, and he did not desire to change her name to Agnes A. Williams. So he married Miss Agnes A. Wood, and her name is now Mrs. Agnes A. Wood. Incredible as that looks on the face of it, it is true. For John Melephant Williams had his own name changed before the ceremony to John Melephant Wood. His petition for the change was granted by Judge [illegible] of the county court. Without leaving the court house the man with the new identity went down to the first floor and signed his new name to an application for a marriage license.

CUMMINS AND THE INSURGENTS

Iowa Leader and LaFollette Intend to Go on With Their Work.

Murdock's Entrance to Congress—Boom for Direct Nominations—Wallace in the Hall of Fame.

(Washington Correspondence of the News.)

WASHINGTON, [illegible]—The defiance uttered by Senator Cummins in Iowa during the holidays is finding an echo among the insurgents in Washington. Cummins seemed to have no hesitation in naming the men he objected to and his reasons for objecting to them. He was a definite program and pre[illegible] of his [illegible] to make the other insurgents more concrete in their plans and operations. It will have served a good purpose. The criticism of the progressive form of campaign in the past has been that it was sometimes a trifle vague, scattered all in the air. But it is now focalized and directed at agreed points it will prove more effective. One thing is certain—that Cummings and La Follette intend to go straight ahead with their insurgency just as they have done since the days when each was governor of his state. This very act may stiffen the backbones of their associates in the two houses and cause them to follow a similar policy.

The story of the way Victor Murdock, the insurgent leader of the House, got into Congress is still told with relish in Washington. [illegible] [illegible] Kansas [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]. [illegible] feature of Murdock's campaign was [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]. [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Senator Jonathan Bourne, Jr., of Oregon, he who made his famous campaign for a "second elective term" for Roosevelt, is now out for direct nominations of [illegible]. There is a suspicion [illegible] that Bourne still harbors dreams of seeing his old [illegible] in the White House, and thinks [illegible] can put [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]. But [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible].

The action of the state of Indiana in [illegible] of General Lew Wallace in the hall of fame has aroused [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] America [illegible] "Ben Hur" has been translated into almost every tongue of civilization, and as author of famous [illegible] of the Christ, [illegible] America of a [illegible] not only the [illegible] of a writer, but that of a soldier and diplomat. [illegible] certain that his reputation will [illegible] [illegible] [illegible].

IF YOU WILL USE

Wyandotte Sanitary Cleaner and Cleanser

Everything may be easily made clean, sweet and pure, like new. "Wyandotte" is a dry, snow-white powder, with no grease, fat, lye, acid or preservatives in its composition. Neither does it contain a particle of animal or vegetable matter. It is purely a mineral cleaning compound. This may be a new idea to you, yet "Wyandotte" has been thoroughly tested and bears the unqualified endorsement of Pure Food Inspectors, Dairy Officials and Boards of Health.

THE MIGHTIEST REDUCTION SALE EVER KNOWN.

Every man, woman and child is commanded to attend this Event. We guarantee to refund to any purchasers, for any reason whatsoever. We shall protect every buyer accordingly. No housewife should overlook this event. Mind you, at this season of the year, when all the other merchants are exacting the highest prices for their wares. You never heard of it before and never will again. Therefore, take advantage of the greatest bargain feast offered. A story briefly told. We are over-stocked. The stock must be reduced and disposed of, and prices will have no consideration. The stock that forms the basis of this sale is merchandise of dependability and quality. No consideration is here given; we have resolved to just one purpose—to sell all—and must be sold. Your benefit. The opportunity afforded. A sale without a counterpart or parallel. A stupendous landslide of merchandise comprising the world's best product marked at prices that will cannonade and shake the community from centre to circumference. The doors will swing back promptly, Wednesday, January 12, at 9 A. M., and disclose a scene of bargain brilliance and splendor never equaled in the history of mercantile annals.

NOTICE—The entire stock will be marked in plain figures. We assure each and every purchaser absolute satisfaction. We guarantee every statement here made and we will take back, exchange, or refund your money on any unsatisfactory purchase. Stock is all new and abounds in money-making inducements that will surely prove a tonic for your overworked pocketbook. We caution you to come early as the sale lasts FOR TEN DAYS ONLY. Everything must go rapidly. This is the only sale of its kind in the vicinity and may never occur again. In order to prove to you the tremendous sacrifices that are being made, we have mentioned a few of the extraordinary bargains that will be offered you. Bear in mind everything is just as advertised. Remember no postponement. Satisfaction guaranteed in every case.

NEW YORK LETTER.

Metropolis Outstrips London as Greatest Amusement Centre.

"Man With the Camera Eye Retires"—The New Liquor Law—War on Infant Shoplifters.

[Correspondence of the News.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 8. Within the past few months New York has outstripped London as the greatest amusement centre in the world. Its possession of this record is due primarily to the rapid increase in the number of theatres here of which no less than a dozen are now in process of construction. Heretofore London has always boasted the possession of more playhouses than any other city, having over 80. Greater New York however now has [illegible] theatres within its limits, of which 74 are in Manhattan. These theatres entertain every night audiences aggregating 170,000 persons, besides matinee attendances of an equal number twice a week. It is estimated that $[illegible] is paid out in New York daily for theatrical entertainment. In addition there are 300 moving picture establishments attended by half a million persons each day. Admissions to these amusement places represent another $50,000. Operatic and musical entertainments are responsible for a daily expenditure of $25,000 during the winter season, and miscellaneous exhibitions and sporting events, such as are held in the Madison Square Garden and other large halls, call for an average expenditure of not less than $15,000 daily throughout the season.

If the profits of the fashionable restaurants are included and "dining out" admittedly is one of the favorite recreations of New Yorkers, the daily expenditure in this city for amusement and recreation easily surpasses half a million dollars a day. Not all this money comes from the pockets of New Yorkers of course. Probably a third of the total amount is expended by visitors from all parts of the country. The fact remains, however, that in no other city is any such sum lavished on purely amusement purposes as in New York which therefore stands as the amusement capital of the world.

It is doubtful if New York will ever again have a police officer with the peculiar abilities and qualifications of Lieutenant William P. Sheridan who retired from the police department after 23 years service. Sheridan was famous among police officials and criminals all over the world as "The man with the camera eye." The title was bestowed upon him in view of the fact that he never forgot a face which he had once seen and carefully observed. For the past 14 years he has been in charge of the famous "Rogues' Gallery" at police headquarters here, but he seldom had occasion to refer to this collection of photographs in identifying a professional crook, as he knew practically every criminal of importance from one end of the country to the other. Not only the facial characteristics of thieves and other criminals, but also their other identification marks were indelibly engraved on his memory.

As an instance of his powers in this direction a man was brought before him one morning who had been arrested simply because he had been found in the company of a notorious postoffice burglar. None of the other headquarter detectives recognized him, but as soon as Sheridan looked him over he exclaimed "Why, this is Mott Haven Bob!" an old-time crook who had dropped out of sight for several years. The man denied the charge indignantly and insisted that he was a respectable citizen. But Sheridan proceeded to describe certain tattoo marks and other identification points that would be found on him and when preparations were made to strip the prisoner, he broke down and confessed his identity. Numberless similar stories are related of the man conceded to have the most remarkable memory of any police officer in the world. Although Sheridan is retiring from the service of the city he will not give up his favorite occupation of catching and identifying criminals for he is to become a partner of William J. Burns, the United States Secret Service man in the detective agency which the latter has established here. Sheridan is one of the few men who follow the pursuit of criminals for his love of the game, for he is independently wealthy.

These thirsty souls who live in the many suburban communities around New York, where the sale of liquor is forbidden or where visits to the [illegible] [illegible] goods emporiums are frowned upon by the best elements in society, have been placed in a sad dilemma by the new federal law which went into force on the first of January and which requires that all packages containing alcoholic stimulants must be plainly marked with the nature of their contents. Heretofore these individuals have been able to have their favorite brands of cheer shipped [illegible] New Jersey or Connecticut homes under the guise of "groceries" or "vegetables" and nobody was the wiser. Now, however if John Smith has a quart of whiskey or a demijohn of rum shipped to his suburban home that fact is blazoned forth on the package where all who run may read. In small communities such facts travels fast and John Smith's social reputation would not survive such an event more than 24 hours. Apparently the only recourse of those who wish to enjoy the cup that cheers and also inebriates is to carry their "shipments" home internally as this form of transportation does not seem to be covered by the interstate commerce act.

The arrest of several children of from six to 10 years of age for shoplifting during the recent holiday season has caused renewed efforts to be made to stamp out this species of crime through which the large department stores of the country lose millions of dollars annually. The [illegible] [illegible] who are made adept at the various forms of stealing of course are merely agents in the hands of older, grown-up criminals. The younger the child so long as it can be taught to do the work of the thief, the more valuable its services for it is less likely to be arrested or to be punished if [illegible] it is taken into custody. It goes hard with the men and women who are convicted of violating this particular phase of the law against theft, especially if it can be shown that the offender is implicated in the training small children to a life of crime. The association representing the big department stores who have suffered most severely from this form of depredation has adopted the policy of prosecuting every case of shoplifting to the limit and this has resulted in the arrest and fining of a number of wealthy women who apparently unable to resist the impulse to steal trinkets, gloves and bits of ribbon which they might easily have bought.

THE AUSTRALIAN DUGONG.

The Sea-cow is a Peculiar and Interesting Fish. Makes Its Home in the Coral Seas.

The Australian dugong better known to many as the sea-cow, is a most interesting and peculiar animal. Its home is the coral seas and it usually hugs the seashore, being fairly plentiful in North Queensland. Its favorite haunts are the mud banks on which grow the dugong grass and other marine shrubs on which it feeds. The dugong usually travels in shoals of a dozen or more. They may be seen all the year round; but at certain periods they appear to visit some favored feeding ground in greater numbers than usual. A full-grown fish is about nine feet long, three feet broad across the thickest part of the back and weighs anything up to half a ton. It has a most peculiar head, something between that of a fish and a pig-like, with short, white bristles above them.

The hide of the dugong is extremely thick and tough, being an inch or more through on the top of the back, and of a dark slate color, partly covered with short white bristles, and usually in part by barnacles or other crustaceous substances. On the breast and belly the skin is thinner, and white in color; around the nose are thick brush-like bristles with which it tears up the marine grasses, taking this off in turn with a tongue very similar in appearance to a scrubbing brush, with which it conveys its food down to the back molars. On the upper jaw, one on either side, are two white ivory tusks. These in the females are small, but in the case of the males they average six inches long by one inch in thickness. A short distance down from the head, one on either side, are two short, thick, armlike flaps, between which, in the case of the female, is a breast, for the dugong is mammiferous. The body tapers off toward the tail, which is similar in shape and position to that of a whale, and with this the fish propels itself forward at a great pace, its action being similar to that of sculling in propelling a boat. The chief use of the flaps seems to be to shield the offspring from danger as it travels about with the mother.

The dugong is very much prized for its oil, which is obtained by cutting the fish up and boiling down; the oil being worth from 10s 6d per gallon upward, according to the market and the quality. This oil is stated on good authority to be of some little medicinal value, and proves very efficacious in cases of rheumatism. Bacon is made from the dugong, too, by salting and smoking portions of the meat. This bacon is highly nutritious and excellent eating, and is reckoned of great value as a diet for consumptive patients, as it is a splendid substitute for cod liver oil.

A dugong fishing plant entails some little expenditure, which, perhaps, accounts in part for so few starting in what is generally a very profitable business. In the first place, a fairly good dugong net costs at least £40; then there is the smoking hut and boilers on the beach for curing the bacon and boiling down the oil, etc. The net is usually 120 yards long, 10 feet to 12 feet deep of 2-foot mesh, and made of inch rope, a nine-strand rope, of course running through the top and bottom. When set the nets are made fast to heavy anchors, one at either end of the net, the nearest landward anchor being about 50 yards or so from the beach. The floats used are the same as those of an ordinary fishing net, save that, in addition, an empty, plugged oil drum is secured to the middle, and two broad planks, one at either end. The net is set just before dark, when it is noticed that the dugong are about. This is easily determined, as each one must come to the surface every three minutes or so to breathe. A heavy indrawing of breath, followed at once by the full blown distension of the snout, which immediately closes like a valve, announces in the darkest night that a dugong has come up to blow and turned over to dive down and join its mates again, to sport among or browse on the luscious herbage and sea grasses that wave over the soft rich brown mud banks like the tangled masses of a mermaid's hair. It is in rising to blow or cough that the dugong fouls the net, and turning over and over in its efforts to escape, only fastens itself more securely in the folds. Sometimes the animal fouls its tail, when the net soon proves its winding sheet, and in the gray morn the fisherman is early apprised of his catch by seeing the white belly of the drowned mammal floating above the water line.

[illegible] next we [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] we learned that we should have added a [illegible] [illegible] for the sake of the [illegible] I will explain that a brooder consists of [illegible] ways and [illegible] parlors and places [illegible] [illegible] supposed to be kept at different temperatures so that when a chicken gets [illegible] to death in the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the old-fashioned method of smothering to death by his brothers [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the troubles by making them more complex.

"About this time I was taken over a perfect incubating plant and the [illegible] gave me the result of his [illegible] years' experience. One thing I [illegible] learned [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the best chicken by [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] he was dead. THE CHRISTMAS STORM ON CAPE COD.

[The Listener, in Boston Transcript.]

Those who saw the [illegible] on Cape Cod the day after Christmas were treated to an experience that they will not soon forget. With nothing to break the force of the terrific wind, the narrow stretch of land from Sandwich down to Provincetown was [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] from shore to shore, and just before high tide at 11 o'clock in the morning it looked as though the angry waves would engulf the Cape [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]. The shores of the Cod stretch in lonely [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] of water fowl and small wild [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] dashed [illegible] [illegible] in [illegible] [illegible] fury, [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] sight, and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] sought [illegible]. Sometimes one would see flocks of frightened birds trying to breast the [illegible], but they [illegible] would drop out of sight as though exhausted. Great flocks of wild ducks [illegible] [illegible] marshes, and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] attempted to [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Sunday morning [illegible].

The [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] which was rejected as [illegible] a "vulgar and immoral" [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] with open arms by the directors of the Carnegie Art Galleries at Pittsburg, who immediately gave the [illegible] a prominent place among the other treasures in the galleries.

FOR SAFER INVESTMENT.

corporations issuing them, and in case of default the property is held for the satisfaction of the claim of the bondholders, before other claims; whereas, as stocks, etc., may be upon a good paying basis for years and sell at a large premium, a great loss may come in the affairs of the company at any time which will necessitate the reduction or stopping of all dividends, or the impairment of the capital, and in some cases an assessment against the stockholders. These are cases which the Board of Commissioners are trying to avoid. The sale of the Wickford Line is a very good illustration of the cases cited above. A little over two decades ago an offer of par or $100 a share was made for the city of Newport's [illegible] shares of stock of this company, but the offer was not accepted. The past fall the company was sold at mortgagee's sale and not enough was realized to pay any of the indebtedness of the company and the money invested by the stockholders was a total loss, whereas the bondholders realized something on their bonds.

The William H. Hazard Home for Aged Men fund having accumulated to such an amount as to be available for the establishment of a home, as intended, the Rhode Island Hospital Trust Company turned the funds in their hands over to the city treasurer, who turned them over to the Board of Commissioners of the Sinking Funds. This fund contained many stocks, which have been given due consideration by the Board of Commissioners, and most of them have been disposed of and re-invested or are in process of exchange. From this fund has been expended $[illegible] for the purchase of the Chace house on Clarke street for a Home for Aged Men.

The matter of converting all of the trust funds into other securities is being duly considered by the Board of Commissioners and will have their attention. When such funds are finally arranged it is thought that the financial affairs under their charge will be in a more satisfactory condition than ever before.

All bonds purchased are registered in the name of the Board of Commissioners and all orders for money withdrawn are signed by the city treasurer and countersigned by two of the Board of Commissioners.

The issue of Second Ward Schoolhouse bonds, amounting to $16,000, matured in July, 1909, and provision for their payment was promptly made by the Board of Commissioners.

Since the establishment of the Board of Commissioners of the Sinking Funds there has been offered by a bond house in Boston the city of Newport's 4 per cent bonds of 1948 at 1053, when bonds of other cities in the East were offered by the same house at prices ranging from 101½ to 103½, the city of Newport's bonds being nearly two points above the bonds of any other city. This appears to show how the financial standing of the city of Newport has improved since the establishment of the Board of Commissioners of the Sinking Funds for the city of Newport.

In accordance with the act of the General Assembly, the Board of Commissioners of the Sinking Funds respectfully requests that the Representative Council make an appropriation of $17,893.00 for the sinking fund for 1910.

Appended hereto as a part of this report is a financial statement of the various funds as prepared by the city treasurer, which are under the control and care of the Board of Commissioners. (An abstract of this statement has already been printed in The News.)

BLOCKADED.

Every Household in Newport Should Know How to Resist It.

The back aches because the kidneys are blockaded.

Help the kidneys with their work.

The back will ache no more.

Lots of proof that Doan's Kidney Pills do this.

It's the best proof, for it comes from Newport.

Mrs. Sarah E. Freeman, 21 Warner Street, Newport, R. I., says: "My nephew was more or less troubled by backache for some time. Often it kept him awake at night and in the morning he arose feeling stiff and lame. In addition to backache, other difficulties existed which left no doubt that his kidneys were affected and wholly responsible for his suffering. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills, he procured a box at Wright & Hay's Drug Store and their use brought results that proved them to be a remedy of great merit."

THIS EVENING'S OFFICIAL MEETINGS.

There promises to be something in the official meeting line this evening. There will be the first meeting the School Committee for the year, the election of a chairman and secretary, the annual report of the superintendent, the report of the finance committee on the needs of the schools for the ensuing year, which when passed upon will go to the Committee of Twenty-Five; the appointment of sub-committees and other business incident to starting the new financial year.

The Board of Aldermen will hold two hearings, if any one cares to be heard, one on the proposed new road to connect the ends of the Ocean drive, extending from the intersection of Clinton street on Wellington avenue to the intersection of West Narragansett avenue and Marchant street, and the other on the petition to have Chase street, leading off Poplar, declared a public highway after more than 20 years of use as such.

The Representative Council sub-committee on streets and highways and the one on parks, police and public property, will also meet.

BUSY TUNING UP THE MECHANISMS.

meeting at Dominguez Junction today, and witnessed the first competitive trials of aeroplanes in America.

A clatter from the great shelter tent nearly a mile away, where aeroplane motors were being tested, met the ears of thousands who crowded off the interurban cars at the field directly after breakfast, though the first flights were not scheduled until afternoon. The noise of these, sounding like several batteries of machine guns in action, was mingled with the comparatively gentle whirr of the engines of the dirigibles. All the machines were tested early. Scores of French, British and American mechanicians, brought by the aviators and dirigible pilots, were busy tuning up the delicate mechanisms which direct the nine biplanes and monoplanes entered and the big cigar-shaped aircraft belonging to Knabenshue.

When the main body of the throng of spectators began arriving, shortly before noon, everything was in readiness. Every face in the field was lifted to the sky as the big dirigibles, the first to start, mounted into the air and after a few evolutions floated over the starting point, waiting for the smaller, more uncertain and, therefore, dangerous aeroplanes to take the air.

The grand stand, with the tiers of boxes, holds nearly 25,000 people, and it was crowded before the first attempt at flight was made. At 2:30 o'clock three car trains were run every two minutes from the city, and it was estimated that the facilities at hand were capable of handling 15,000 passengers in 40 minutes.

It was announced early that Glenn H. Curtiss would make the first flight today, and would be followed probably by Paulhan and certainly by Charles K. Hamilton of New Britain, Conn., and the two aviators Paulhan brought from France with him—Miscarol and Maisson. Curtiss said that his flights today would have an important bearing on his patent controversy with the Wrights, and in his opinion would end the litigation which all but prevented the holding of the aviation contests.

"In the arguments of their lawyers the Wrights proved theoretically to Judge Hazel in the federal court at Buffalo that my machines depend on the vertical rudder to maintain equilibrium," said Curtiss. "I will demonstrate by actual flight that they do not. That will end the action for injunction for the Wrights' patents hinge on what is called the warping surface. Their machines have to depend on the vertical rudder to help them maintain their balance. The warping surface of the planes give the machines a turning tendency, which the rudder has to overcome. The rudders on the Curtiss machines have no such function. This meet will prove what I say. We are going to take the decision of the judges before the courts."

There is no set program for any day except Saturday, when the government dirigible, in charge of Lieutenant Paul Beck of the signal corps, will try a night attack on revenue cutter Perry in San Pedro harbor. Any aviator may go up at any time between 1 o'clock in the afternoon and dark, and there is no doubt that several of them probably all—are planning surprises.

For instance, Curtiss looks pre-occupied whenever the subject of flight with a passenger is broached. He points out the fact that all the Curtiss machines here have no accommodations for a passenger. Yet there is a $10,000 prize for the longest flight with a passenger. Then there are prizes ranging from $2,500 to $7,500 for speed, endurance and altitude records. Paulhan is certain to try for at least the height record, and the four big fliers he brought with him from France look impressive. All aviators maintain the utmost secrecy regarding their plans.

Another enthusiast who was expected to make a flight before the day is over, is Clifford Harmon, millionaire sportsman of New York, whose machine Curtiss tried out in flights yesterday. Harmon holds the American balloon record of 48 hours in the air, but has never ridden in an aeroplane. Commodore E. C. Benedict, Harmon's father-in-law, prefers that his son-in-law should stay on the ground.

"I'll give you the price of ten of these machines," he said to Mr. Harmon, "if you will not go up."

But Harmon turned the offer down.

Cortlandt Field Bishop, president of the Aero Club of America, who is to act as one of the chief judges, failed to arrive today in time for the first flights. The same sort of blizzard weather which kept Paulhan and his associates on the way across the country for nearly eight days delayed him, and he will not reach here before night.

One feature will be flights by Mrs. Paulhan, with one of the Frenchmen who came with her husband. Like her husband she speaks no English, but through an interpreter today she announced her intention of flying.

Harmon has sent invitations to Governor Spry of Utah and Governor Sloan of Arizona to come here during the week and take a sail in his big balloon, the New York. Governor Gillett of California will be here for the entire meet, and will ascend if the others will.

JAMESTOWN.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

Alfred Richardson, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Richardson, had a narrow escape from drowning yesterday while skating off the north reservoir. Ice to fill the large house has been cut at different intervals for nearly two weeks, the work being interrupted by thaws and storms. This has left the pond with several different thicknesses of ice on it and some had not frozen thick enough to hold the boy and he broke through. Several other small boys were skating with Richardson. They were unable to get near him on account of the thinness of the ice, but one hurried to the ice house and secured a long-handled ice pick, with the aid of which Richardson was pulled out. He was hurried to the home of Mr. Herbert Gardner, who supplied him with dry clothing, the boy leaving for his home a little later apparently none the worse for his cold plunge.

Mr. Richard Jenks of Providence spent the week's end as guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Littlefield on Union street.

There was no morning session of the public schools this morning on account of the snow storm.

Miss Louise Carr of Bristol spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Carr, on the Shore road.

A snow storm, which at daylight bid fair to become a blizzard, struck the island shortly after midnight, but instead of growing worse it steadily improved and cleared away shortly after 9 o'clock.

MARKET VERY UNSETTLED.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—There was a renewal of general excitement and another sensational break in the cotton market this morning. A bullish interpretation was placed on the census figures and the market opened 4 to 14 points higher, with March contracts selling at 16.02 and May at 16.19 during the first few minutes. This represented an advance of 13 to 17 points from the closing figures Saturday, and of about $4.50 a bale from the low level of last week. These gains, however, brought out a lot of long cotton which had been carried over the recent sensational slump, and it appeared that big Western grain interests and Wall Street longs were selling on a tremendous scale.

Southern bulls claimed that the census figures absolutely confirmed the small government estimates of the total yield, and reiterated their prediction of 20-cent cotton. They did little, however, to support the market, and March contracts sold off to 15.48 and May to 15.65.

There was a recovery of 10 or 15 points around midday, but the market acted very unsettled as a result of the demoralizing break of the forenoon.

SAGE GIFT RELEASES FUNDS.

Hillhouse Mortgage Raised and Blount Legacy Replaced at Yale.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 10.—As a result of the recent gift of $650,000 by Mrs. Russell Sage of New York for the purchase of the Hillhouse property and its transfer, free of encumbrance, to Yale University, a corresponding amount is released without restriction for the use of the university corporation. Mrs. Sage's benefaction raises the mortgages of the Hillhouse property due this year, and also replaces in the Yale treasury the sum of about $300,000 used from the Blount legacy in England, which last year came into Yale's possession.

This week important meetings will be held, one by the board of Sheffield Scientific School trustees, and the other a special meeting of the Yale corporation to act on the disposition of the funds, amounting to about $650,000, released by the Sage gift. It is generally understood that the plan proposed in the erection on the Hillhouse property of a large biological laboratory, and perhaps the appointment in connection with it of a university professor in biology on a new foundation. The great importance of this step appears in connection with the policy of transferring to the new laboratory, as well as to the new Sloane physical laboratory to be erected on the Hillhouse property, a considerable number of students from both the Scientific School and the academic department. There is considerable opposition to both plans, on the theory that it tends to injure the unity of both departments, and substitute in its place a university policy.

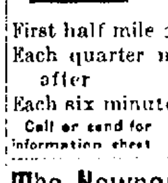

In Yale circles the decision of the Yale corporation at its coming meeting is regarded as one of the most important in the history of the university, as settling with considerable definiteness the question whether hereafter the university policy is to be dominant in Yale affairs or the contrary policy of conserving the unity of the various departments.

AT THE THEATRES.

The new pictures at the Bijou Theatre for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday are: "The Crocodile Hunt," "Late For The Recital", "Daughters of Poverty", "Two Sides To A Story" and "Baby Swallowed A Nickel." The two singing and talking pictures are entitled "When You Know You're Not Forgotten By the Girl You Can't Forget" and "Oh, You Kid." Fay Davis will sing "You For Me When You are Sweet Sixteen" and John Perry "My Little Kangaroo."

At the Star the new bill includes Maurice Rittes, a well known character vocalist, and new illustrated songs and trios by Beard, Bergier and Haley. The new motion pictures are "The Tragedy at the Mill," a story dealing with the time of the wars of the First empire in France; "To Save Her Soul," a biograph feature film, "Shanghaied of Today," a scenic and instructive picture; "A Victim of Circumstances" and "The Marriage of the Cook."

10—Opening prices of stocks advanced as a rule, but the gains were moderate and the speculative interest apparently was languid. Colorado & Southern, United States Express and International Harvester rose 1, and National Railways of Mexico first preferred ¾. Philadelphia Company declined 1.

11—The market became heavy for an interval when United States Steel reacted a point, to 88¾. Large fractional losses were also registered in all the active stocks before the list turned upwards. Large buying orders were distributed for Reading and Rock Island, and when they responded with an advance to a point above last week's closing the whole market moved up briskly.

Noon—Money on call, steady, at 5½ per cent; prime mercantile paper, 4½ to 5 per cent. The drifting movement of prices turned downwards again. St. Paul lost a point. The selling was light and the whole market dull and narrow. Bonds were steady.

ACUTE SKIN TORMENT

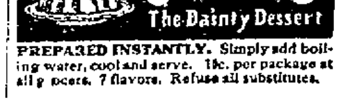

"My hands and arms, right up to the elbows, broke out with large blisters, some an inch across. I need not tell any sufferer from distressing skin complaints what I went through. The irritation almost drove me mad. I became an out-patient of a London hospital and after a fortnight's attendance I was seen by a skin specialist who told me the complaint was psoriasis. The irritation was not allayed at all. Later the disease took a more serious form, affecting my neck and face as well as my hands and arms. My neck was covered and sometimes my eyes were so badly swollen that I could scarcely see. Irritation is too mild a word to describe my suffering, it was excruciating agony. I obtained some Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Resolvent and Cuticura Ointment and was especially pleased with the Ointment, which immediately allayed the itching and caused the sores to heal steadily and surely. In three weeks I was completely cured and there has been no return of the complaint. Arthur Duncan, Bridgend, Wales, Jan. 16, 1907." Cuticura sold by druggists everywhere.

St. Paul's Church Sewing Class, Colonel Barton Chapter and Oliphant Club New Year's Social.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

The Young People's Auxiliary of St. Paul's Church launched its new enterprise, a sewing class of small children, with considerable eclat Saturday afternoon and evening. The brilliantly lighted guild house shone out through the darkness of the night as though a festival was being held within, instead of a number of children learning to sew. Inside, the company, about 40 in number, seated at two tables spread for supper, entered with a spirit into the occasion and a gala time was enjoyed.

After supper games of different kinds, dancing, music, vocal and instrumental, made a lively company. In the peanut hunt, Frances Dittmer and Philip Smoot took prizes, boxes of cracker jack. In unwinding the spider's web Miss Lillian Wheeler, Mr. Howard Pierce and Miss Mahale Hedly won half-pound boxes of candy, and Miss Anna Chase and Mr. John Barroughs the same for prize waltzing, Mrs. Frederick A. Lawton, pianist. The company dispersed about 9.30, pleased with its initial attempt.

Colonel William Barton Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, was entertained Saturday afternoon by Mrs. Seth Deblois. The chapter numbers 19 members and 15 were present, the absentees being the vice regent, Mrs. Phebe E. T. Manchester of Middletown; secretary, Miss Annie Almy of Portsmouth, who is away from home on a visit, Miss Alta March of Newport and Miss Bertha Hicks of Portsmouth. The chapter was honored by the presence of the state regent, Mrs. Charles Warren Lippitt, who with Governor Lippitt came from Providence for the day. Mrs. Deblois read an interesting paper, with "Colonel William Barton" as the subject. Light refreshments were served. The next meeting will be with Mrs. D. Frank Hall of Portsmouth.

An enjoyable New Year's Social was given by the Oliphant Club last week at the home of Mrs. John Coggeshall, though the bad weather and travelling prevented a large attendance. The program for the afternoon was as follows: New Year's quotations; New Year's poems, entitled "Good-bye, Old Year," "Old Year Memories," "A New Leaf," "Another Year," "A New Year's Wish," "Dis Am New Year." New Year Post Cards were distributed, on which each was requested to write New Year's resolutions. The cards were then exchanged and each was expected to live up to the resolution received. A New Year's game was played in which Miss Etta Sherman and Mrs. Coggeshall were a tie for the largest correct list of words having "new" for the first syllable. The prize, a calendar, was finally awarded to Miss Sherman. A monologue, "Mrs. Stub at the Club" was read, followed by the serving of cake and coffee. A graphophone furnished music at intervals.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Angell are visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Angell.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Everett Gray have returned to Tiverton Four Corners, after a few days' visit with Mr. Gray's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gray.

Miss Catherine Brazill, a student at the Boston Conservatory of Music, returned Saturday from her Christmas vacation, spent at her home in Portsmouth.

Miss Clara Anthony was guest Saturday night and Sunday of Miss Edna Malone.

Miss Gladys Brazill, a pupil at the Dominican Academy, Fall River, after spending the holidays at her home in this town, returned to her school today.

In the future a prayer service will be held a half hour before preceding the sermon each Sunday evening at the Christian Church.

Quite recently about 15 young people from the Mission of the Holy Trinity, Tiverton, surprised Rev. James H. Dennis and his sister, Miss Jane Dennis, at Willow Brook, their home in this town, and spent a social evening with games and music.

Mrs. Harry A. Manchester and her daughter Fannie, of Saylesville, have been guests of Dr. Manchester's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar C. Manchester, and of other relatives.

E. W. Thurston's windmill is out of commission, undergoing repairs.

Miss Leonah Dennam of Tiverton is receiving congratulations on her success in winning the [illegible] diamond ring offered by Mr. John Dunn for the one who sold the most tickets for the recent entertainment of St. Anthony's Church. She disposed of [illegible] tickets.

FOR SAFER INVESTMENT.

Many Changes Made to Obtain Better Securities.

First Annual Report of the New Board of Sinking Fund Commissioners.

The following is the report of the commissioners of the sinking funds submitted to the Representative Council at its meeting last week. It is their first report and shows a large amount of very valuable work done by the commission for the city, and the usefulness of the change in the methods of keeping the sinking funds:

The first meeting of the Board of Commissioners at which all the members were present, was held on Thursday, January 21, 1909, for the purpose of organization. At this meeting Mr. George Gordon King was elected chairman and Mr. Thomas B. Congdon was elected secretary of the board.

The act of the General Assembly creating the Board of Commissioners of the Sinking Funds and describing their duties, not being clear to the Board of Commissioners as to certain subjects, the city solicitor was requested to prepare certain amendments as suggested by the Board of Commissioners, which were submitted to your honorable body and by you recommended to the honorable General Assembly for passage, and were passed as recommended. The amendments were as follows: Section 2 was amended making it obligatory for the Board of Commissioners to have all bonds registered in their name. Section 3 was amended so that the city of Newport shall contribute to the sinking funds such amounts as are recommended by the Board of Commissioners at the first meeting of the Representative Council in each month of January hereafter and shall pay said appropriation to the Board of Commissioners whenever requested by them. An extra section was added, whereby the city treasurer acts as treasurer of the Board of Commissioners and signs all checks of the commission, which are to be countersigned by any two of the Board of Commissioners.

The Board of Commissioners has rented safe deposit boxes in the Aquidneck National Bank, where all of the securities in their possession are kept and to which access is to be had only in the joint presence of not less than three members of the Commission.

The Aquidneck National Bank has been designated by the Board of Commissioners as the official depository of the commissioners for the reception of all funds temporarily awaiting investment.

The act of the General Assembly makes it imperative for the Board of Commissioners to invest the sinking funds of the city in such bonds or securities as are sanctioned by the banking laws of the states of New York, Massachusetts and Rhode Island, and the Board of Commissioners have been guided by these laws in making investments.

The sinking funds and various other funds have been turned over by the city treasurer to the Board of Commissioners. The book value of the sinking fund when turned over amounted to $308,565.59. Included in this amount were bonds of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company, the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Company, the Illinois Central Railway Company; also a cash balance of $120,730.44 in the Industrial Trust Company of Providence and a cash balance of $82,661.65 in the Island Savings Bank of Newport.

The bonds being of such a character as are authorized for investments, the Board of Commissioners have made no change in them. The cash balances in the Industrial Trust Company and the Island Savings Bank it is the intention of the Board of Commissioners to convert into bonds and to that purpose one half of the deposit in each institution has been withdrawn and invested in bonds of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Company, the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad Company, and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad Company. The balance will be withdrawn later and invested in bonds of a similar character. After this change is made the sinking funds will be invested in gilt-edge bonds.

The appropriation made by the Representative Council of 1909, amounting to $17,[illegible], was invested in bonds of the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad Company.

Besides the sinking funds, the Board of Commissioners have received various other funds amounting to over $[illegible], including [illegible] shares of the capital stock of the Newport & Wickford Railroad & Steamboat Company, which property has been sold at mortgagee's sale, the purchase price of which was not sufficient to satisfy the claim of the bondholders, so that there were not any funds available for the payment of other claims, and consequently the stock of the company is of no value whatsoever, and it is recommended that the Board of Commissioners be requested to discharge and take the amount of $50,000 stock of said company from their books.

It is the opinion of the Board of Commissioners, although they are not restricted as to the forms of investment for trust funds as they are for the sinking funds, that they should invest for the trust funds as nearly as possible in such securities as are allowed for the sinking funds, and for this purpose it is the intention of the Board of Commissioners to dispose of stocks, etc., and to make the investments in gilt-edge bonds.

There are many stocks in the trust investments held by the Board of Commissioners which pay probably more income for the funds than if invested in bonds. The Board of Commissioners are desirous of safeguarding the principal as much as possible and to that end it is the intention to part with the stocks and invest the proceeds in bonds.

Investments in bonds, such as have been made, are the first lien upon the

AT FORT WETHERILL.

This post, which is heavily armed, has little of which to boast in the way of buildings, and in consequence the garrison is confined to a small detail from Fort Adams. The only permanent members of the garrison are noncommissioned officers, who reside in the quarters shown. The small guard, which is changed from time to time, finds shelter in the small building of which the piazza is shown in the picture.

A DRY SUNDAY.

Licensed Liquor Dealers Heed the Commission's Warning.

Police Raid Two Long Wharf Places Saturday Night and Make Several Arrests.

The police court had no business before it this morning, and there is every indication that the advertisement of the License Commission had its effect. Newport was dry Sunday. One man is reported to have been seen drunk on Thames street during the evening and another drunk was seen on Kay street, but this is not necessarily proof that any of the licensed places were doing business. The men may have had their private bottles, they may have made calls where there was a private supply for treating, or they may have visited an unlicensed place.

That the licensed places were closed is best vouched for by old rounders, who desired Sunday evening that they had been unable to locate a place, where they could get in and obtain even a nip. Among this class are men who, while they like a drink have a feeling that the Sunday business is wrong and they say that Sunday was a good exception to the argument put up by some, that it is impossible to keep the barrooms closed on Sunday. These men are frank in their statements that it only requires that the word be said in a way that the liquor dealers shall know that it is meant, and they will not hazard their licenses to do Sunday business.

The police late Saturday night called at two places on Long wharf which have been looked upon as somewhat shady in character and as a result five colored girls were taken to the police station. In the police court Sunday morning they pleaded guilty to the charges made against them, and under the promise of leaving the city for good were placed on probation. Their names were Lucy Carter, Grace Wilson, Bessie Foster, Sadie Adams and Abbie Rollins. The disposition of the cases seemed to satisfy both the principals and the police, the latter claiming that such cases are difficult to convict in Newport and that much expense will be saved by sending them beyond the jurisdiction of the local courts.

Inspector Tobin, accompanied by Officers P. D. Sullivan, Weaver and Coggeshall, called at 71 Long wharf, where the two first named were found, and where Samuel A. Minns, a fireman at the Training Station, is the proprietor. Sergeant Leary, accompanied by officers Leason and Taylor, called at 79 Long wharf and gathered in the other three. This place is kept by Nancy Holly, a colored woman. Minns was charged with maintaining a nuisance, pleaded not guilty and in default of bail was lodged in jail. Nancy has not yet been served, but went to the police station Sunday to learn what all the disturbance was about. The girls claimed to be boarders at these places, but the police seem to think too many sailors frequent them.

Bert Anthony was also before the court, being charged with assaulting Earl Backer in Nancy's place last Friday evening. He paid a fine of $10 and costs.

SUPPORT THE LICENSE COMMISSIONERS.

To the Editor of the News:

Sir: The license commissioners, in the stand that they are taking, deserve the hearty support of all good citizens, whether they believe in license or no-license. For the liquor law will not be impartially administered and steadily enforced until it is backed up by a strong public sentiment. Most of us are too apt to shirk our duty by saying that it is the business of the police to enforce the law, and not the concern of the ordinary citizen. But each of us ought to feel a deeper sense of responsibility in this matter and do something to have the law respected and obeyed.

COST OF LIVING INQUIRY

Representative Adair has introduced a joint resolution, authorizing the president of the Senate and the Speaker of the House to appoint a committee of three Senators, and five members of the House to investigate the alleged high cost of living in this country, which is declared to be "out of proportion to the increase in wages, causing great hardship to those who work for fixed salaries." The increased cost of living is charged to [illegible] according to Mr. Adair's resolution, and he desires to know also if the Payne tariff has fostered monopolies and thus raised prices.

THE NEWPORT JOURNAL AND WEEKLY NEWS.

IN HIS NEW PULPIT.

Rev. G. A. Hulbert Preaches and Conducts the Communion at the United Congregation Church.

Rev. Gustavus A. Hulbert occupied the pulpit of the United Congregational Church for the first time Sunday, preaching morning and evening and conducting the Communion service at the close of the regular morning sermon. He made no reference to the fact that he was beginning a new pastorate.

In the morning he preached a Communion sermon, taking his text from John XV:14-15, "Ye are my friends if ye do whatsoever I command you. Henceforth I call you not servants; for the servant knoweth not what his lord doeth; but I have called you friends, for all things that I have heard of my Father I have made known unto you." The sermon spoke of the personal friendship of Christ for his followers, and especially of the meaning of the gathering of the few disciples at the Last Supper, and dwelt briefly on the meaning of the Communion, which commemorates the supper.

In the evening Rev. Mr. Hulbert took his text from Jonah I, 3: "So he paid the fare thereof." The world, he said, is a world of change. What we are today is not exactly what we were yesterday, nor what we shall be tomorrow. The world changes in all its attributes. There is no such thing as standing still. The question is: Is the world, the sum total of things, growing better or worse? Are there more good thoughts and deeds than bad?

We are traveling in one of two directions. There is no halting place between the two eternities. Whichever way we are going, we must pay the fare. We must pay the price for every thing, and we pay our own price. Every one shall bear his own burden, and whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. Either we are traveling towards our ideal, or we are lapsing back towards that from which we came.

Sacrifice is a purposeful gift, with some end in view. It is voluntary. The price we pay to make wrong what was right is involuntary; it is purposeless. With those who suffer that they may make right what was wrong there is a consciousness that it is worth while.

Jesus Christ should be our model. He paid the price in service and sacrifice. He was the greatest servant of the universe, and we should starve to find the purpose of God in his sacrifice and suffering, and apply it to our own lives.

M'LYMAN ON THE BROWN BASKET BALL TEAM.

"Ben" McLyman of the Freshman class at Brown University, a graduate of the Rogers High School, is playing regularly at centre on the 'varsity basket ball team, which opened its season Saturday, defeating the Rhode Island College team, 32-13. The Providence Journal says: "McLyman filled Raquet's place at centre in grand style, getting the ball from the toss nearly every time." He was active in the game, scoring three goals. McLyman's experience in the Young Men's Christian Association and Naval Reserves teams makes him a valuable player for Brown.
